'We'll Ignore Order'

● Bill 33 battle finds support. Page 17

VANCOUVER (CP)— A confrontation between the B.C. government and the province's construction unions appeared inevitable Tuesday night as all hope of meeting Labor Minister James Chabot's deadline of noon today for contract settlement was lost.

Jim Kinnaird, president of the B.C. and Yukon Building and Construction Trades Council, said another week of negotiations was needed to end the industry's strike-lockout. "But we're not going to ask for it. The hell with him (Chabot)."

Chabot said, however that the government "is not prepared to start fooling around with deadlines now."

"They've had ample time," Chabot said. "If the ratifications (of all 18 contracts) aren't in by noon, the order goes in."

Chabot said the cabinet would meet in New Westminster tonight and pass an order-in-council ordering a return-to-work and a binding settlement by the B.C. Mediation Commission.

Kinnaird said: "We'll ignore the damn thing, it's as simple as that."

C. J. Connaghan, president of the Construction Labor Relations Association which locked out all 18 construction unions five weeks ago, said: "If he (Chabot) moves, we will obey the law."

A government order under Section 18 of the Mediation Commission Act would give the parties in a contract dispute 24 hours to resume work. It is understood the cabinet would time things so that construction work would be ex-

Evicted Mom Ducks Issue

Tuesday a move had to be made. Don Adams, SPCA inspector, went to the site and moved nest and mother to a spot near the reservoir on Summit Street.

The mother took off for a 20-minute swim in the reservoir, then returned to the original nest site. Adams managed to catch her and take her to the new location.

"She looked the situation over for about 10 minutes, covered the eggs with fine down in the nest, then went away," Adams said.

"I waited until there was dozen of the eggs cooling, then took them home and put them in an incubator."

There they will stay for the remaining six days of their incubation period, unless the mother can be found and persuaded to take over once more. Adams is going back to the site this morning to see if he can find her.

If not, duck-fanciers can take comfort from the fact that mallards frequently nest twice in a season. Mother may soon be sitting on a new batch of eggs in a new nest, leaving her first brood to the incubator and the SPCA.

Adams Tuesday night was appreciative of the concern shown by the construction workers and the many citizens who telephoned him to ask after Mother Mallard and her eggs.

While he is not an expert on ducks, Adams has a wide knowledge of other wild birds and has hatched a number of their eggs successfully in his incubator.

Saving the Planet: What's at Stake?

Industrial man is living on borrowed time. Having recklessly consumed fast-diminishing supplies of basic raw materials, and in the process over-populated and fouled his planet, he has at last realized that it can't go on indefinitely. The UN Conference on the Human Environment, currently taking place in Stockholm, is the first major international effort to face up to these massive problems.

As background material to some of the problems under discussion in Stockholm, the Colonist is presenting a series of articles dealing with the more urgent aspects of the human dilemma.

The series opens on Page 5 today. The Topic: Population. Subsequent articles will deal with the threat of food supplies, to water and air, and to wildlife — all of which, explains writer Gamini Seneviratne, are vital to mankind's existence.

Pollution: Canada Would Go It Alone

STOCKHOLM (CP) — Canada is prepared to initiate some international anti-pollution programs unilaterally even if they are not fully acceptable to the United Nations environment conference.

Environment Minister Jack Davis made this clear at a news conference Tuesday when he reported that his campaign to develop global anti-pollution standards is meeting increasing opposition.

The United States indicated in its presentation that it prefers national programs under which sovereignty would be protected. Delegation chairman Russell Train also wants to see the proposed permanent UN environment body tucked away as a commission under the UN Social and Economic Council, a move which Canada intends to fight, backed by a number of other countries.

Swedish Prime Minister Olof Palme said in an interview that he will support the Canadian view that the new agency should be given teeth under which it may launch global attacks on polluters.

Palme suggested such an agency might prove more effective in dealing with multinational companies whose operations are spread among many countries.

As 17 of the 112 countries presented their position papers before the plenary session Tuesday, it appeared evident that no matter how the infighting developed, Maurice Strong of Canada, the conference secretary-general, would get his permanent environment organization, though its strength is still in doubt.

The U.S. announced that it

Castro's Heart Troubled

WARSAW (AP) — Polish government sources said Tuesday night Fidel Castro was showing signs of heart trouble after the Cuban premier arrived in Poland for a stop on a nine-nation tour.

The sources said Castro, 44, was in "a state prior to a heart infarct," indicating fear that he might suffer a heart attack.

Ottawa Hogs Cleanup Show

CRESCENT BEACH (CP) — Municipal workers and volunteers continued the messy job of cleaning up crude oil from beaches near the U.S. border Tuesday, while federal officials in Ottawa and Stockholm claimed credit for what was being done.

In Ottawa, Transport Minister Don Jamieson said his department was using all available devices in the area to clean up the oil slick.

In Stockholm, where he is attending the UN conference on the environment, Environment Minister Jack Davis said in a telephone interview that British Columbians could be assured he would take steps to have it cleaned up. A number of methods might be employed, including slick-lickers, he said.

But on the beach, the lone federal man in sight was a fisheries inspector, and Doug Cunningham, emergency measures officer with the fisheries service, described the problem as "essentially between Surrey municipality and the Atlantic Richfield Oil Co."

California Tops Four-State Gain

McGovern Sweeps

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — George McGovern bolted into an early lead over Hubert Humphrey Tuesday night in the snarled California primary and claimed a majority of New Jersey's delegates. President Nixon also captured enough delegates in California to guarantee renomination.

With 20 per cent of the vote counted in the make or break California Democratic primary, McGovern led Humphrey by a margin of 49 to 35 per cent.

California Secretary of State Edmund Brown ordered county election officials not to release or even count votes until 11 p.m. A federal court order to keep the polls open in San Francisco until that hour prompted the secretary of state's ruling.

But the word had not yet filtered through at once to at least 4 of the 58 counties, including the San Francisco suburb of San Mateo where McGovern took the lead based on scattered returns. He also led big in the three other counties.

Meantime, McGovern won the New Mexico primary over Alabama's George Wallace and the South-Dakota contest where he was unopposed. Early returns from New Jersey placed McGovern in the lead there.

Explosion Traps 468

AP—Reuter

SALISBURY — Rescuers burrowing into a Rhodesian coal mine where a massive explosion occurred Tuesday, trapping 468 men underground, found one survivor Tuesday night and three dead bodies.

A spokesman for the Wankie colliery said the survivor and the bodies were all found in the same area 300 feet below the surface in the central "Kamandama" shaft.

The spokesman said rescuers had been unable to penetrate further than the bottom of the central shaft, and added that heavy rockfalls had severely hampered rescue attempts.

The discovery of the survivor was the first official confirmation that anyone had lived through the explosion.

pected to start again on Monday.

The act provides maximum penalties of $1,000 for individuals and $10,000 for organizations. If the offence is a continuing one a fine of $150 can be levied for each day the offence continues.

Two years ago during the first lockout, the construction unions defied a back-to-work order and the government found itself on the brink of a dangerous confrontation.

Premier Bennett summoned officers of the trades council to Victoria and after a brief meeting with him they went into session at the Empress Hotel with Connaghan and then labor minister Leslie Peterson.

The upshot was an agreement to return to work under old contracts while new ones were worked out with deputy minister William Sands in the role of the third-party.

Labor claimed this as a victory over controversial Bill 33.

Chabot said Tuesday that parties have been in negotiations for three months without being able to reach agreement. A total of 44 contracts expired March 31.

The labor minister noted that the painters union had been able to reach agreement with the recent ratification of a new two-year contract giving workers an increase of $1.05 an hour in wages and fringe benefits.

"They've all had the same opportunity," he said.

He said today's deadline, which was set one week ago, was "fair and reasonable."

A heavy negotiation schedule for all trades was carried out in the last week but without success.

"Without the pressure of the deadline looking at us it (agreement) might have dropped into place," Kinnaird said.

However, Kinnaird accused CLRA of not giving a "damn!" for reaching settlement because they wanted the mediation commission to set the wage ceilings.

Asked if the construction unions are prepared for the political battle that may result from their defiance of the Mediation Commission Act, Kinnaird said:

"We're into this battle. We don't want it but we can't avoid it."

day spill at an Atlantic refinery just south of the border is coating rocks and shoreline, are both within the municipality of Surrey.

Surrey Mayor William Vander Zalm said Tuesday he has not heard from either the federal or provincial governments about the spill.

But Vander Zalm confirmed Tuesday that Atlantic Richfield will pay "the substantial costs" of the cleanup of more than five miles of shoreline extending from White Rock, around the Ocean Park Point to Crescent Beach and on into Mud Bay.

The oil was spilled when a valve broke aboard a Liberian tanker pumping Persian Gulf crude into the refinery at Cherry Point, Wash. U.S. Coast Guard officials estimated that between 4,000 and 12,000 gallons went into the water, with much of the spill carried north by wind and tide.

More than 300 high school students were given the day off to help with the cleanup Tuesday and Vander Zalm said the situation was under control. He said, however, that the cleanup likely would go on for the rest of the week.

Crews shovelled oil-soaked seaweed and sand into sacks at low tide, then spread thousands of bales of hay along the waterline to catch more oil as it came in.

From Stockholm, Davis said he is considering legal action against Atlantic Richfield. He said the boundary waters treaty of 1909 gives Canadians the same rights in U.S. courts as American citizens.

"I have asked our people to look into the U.S. law. They will explore all avenues with the justice department and the external affairs office," he said.

would put up $40 million of the proposed five-year $100 million to finance the organization's operations. Davis said the Canadian cabinet has authorized a commitment of between $5 million and $7 million. Britain said it will contribute a substantial sum and Japan said it would put up about 10 per cent or about $10 million.

Strong previously stated that the proposed $100 million won't cover the cost of the international operations under the UN's proposed action plan but it would help trigger national and regional programs.

Train, the U.S. delegation chief, argued that uniform pollution standards are not practical or appropriate. He emphasized the importance of national sovereignty, and suggested that international agencies should establish the anti-pollution criteria "on which national pollution control policies can be based."

Davis, pushing for enforceable global standards, told reporters he also is meeting opposition from the developing countries which feel that enforcing them to adhere to high standards would slow their industrial development.

Davis said Canada is prepared to increase its financial aid to the developing countries to cover this added cost of environmental control. He suggested the Canadian government will underwrite this added aid even if there is no consensus at the UN conference.

In addition to this opposition, Canada is meeting competition in proposing that the next UN environment conference be held in Canada in 1977. Japan wants the conference to take place in Tokyo.

Speeches before the plenary sessions are continuing parallel with documentary work in three committees where the main action is likely to be concentrated as countries try to revise the UN proposals to accord with their own policies.

Among the many Canadian proposals for fighting pollution on a world scale is the suggestion that the Canada-U.S. International Joint Commission be used as a model for more extensive international use.

But the U.S. delegation made no mention of this in its own report. Train noted that Canada and the U.S. signed a longterm agreement to protect Great Lakes water quality.

"But many other major international bodies of water are in similar need," he said. "The Baltic, the North Sea, the Mediterranean, the Caspian, the Rhine, the Danube and many more in every continent cry for effective regional environmental co-operation. In many of these areas the time for action is rapidly running out."

Train gave some global proposals support but they appeared to fall short of what the UN preparatory body had in mind.

THE PLAYBOY format is hitting us from all sides and it wouldn't surprise me a smidgen to see our Bruce Lowther gracing the centrefold of a future copy of Cosmopolitan.

Last week, for instance, this family journal broke a long standing no-no by printing an advertisement for the Julius Schmid company. To the uninitiated, J. Schmid has been the world's leading manufacturer of condoms for lo these many years.

And if you'll go back a few years, you'll remember these products were sold with the admonition they were for the prevention of disease only, not, heaven forbid, as a control of the reproduction process.

But in the newspaper ad of last week, the copy says flat out: "Family planning products for men."

Further down in the copy came the mirth cruncher.

"Quality you can trust. To make sure, we spend almost as much time testing them as we do making them."

Must be a fun shop to work in . . .

THEN THERE is Hansard, and Hansard for May 23 shows not all Commons debate is dull. It records a speech by Conservative Erik Nielsen which surely must have roused a few members from afternoon naps.

Nielsen was debating with Jean Pierre Goyer and this came out:

"I think I might end my remarks with reference to a story. Men who have been in the business world may appreciate a story about a 43-year-old businessman who had just lost a good secretary. He was asked, 'how is that fine looking secretary of yours, is she well?'

"The reply was, 'no, I had to fire her.'

"His friend asked in astonishment, 'why fire such an excellent secretary?'

"Well,' he said, 'it was my 43rd birthday. I came down to breakfast in the morning and not even my children remembered my birthday.

'I WENT to the office, my secretary remembered and said, 'happy birthday.' She said she would like to take me to lunch. After lunch she said, 'it's such a beautiful day, let's take a drive in the country,' which we did. While driving in the country she suggested we go to her apartment for a martini and forget the office for a few hours. We went and had one martini and as she was walking toward her bedroom she turned and said, 'Make yourself comfortable while I do the same.'

"IN A FEW MINUTES she came out with a large birthday cake in her arms, followed by my wife and children and singing, 'happy birthday,' and there I sat in just my socks."

"I suggest," Nielsen concluded, "that is likely how the government is likely to find itself sitting as a result of its lack of decision in calling an election."

Nielsen's analogy is no hell, but the story is great . . .

NOW THIS ONE would qualify for Mad Magazine rather than Playboy. After protesting that his, "I was born dangerous, I live dangerous and I'll die dangerous," statement was just meant as a joke, noted roadrunner Phil Gaglardi said that the account of his forcing a car off the road was not really factual.

"No way, jumpin' Jupiter," Phil exploded. "There was plenty of room for the other car to get off the road when I passed the truck."

Wonder if it's seeped through to Gaglardi that there was no way the other car should have had to get off the road. And I wonder if it ever dawned on him what might have happened had the other car been riding on the side of the road with a sheer drop?

Myocardial Infarction

YOUR GOOD HEALTH

By G. C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I suffered a heart attack a year and a half ago, was in the hospital under oxygen for a week, and on complete bed rest at home for six weeks.

Recently my left arm has been aching a lot and the arm and hand appear swollen. Now my doctor says I had a myocardial infarction, and that the swelling is the same syndrome which very often accompanies this.

Will you explain just what a myocardial infarction is, and what is this syndrome he is talking about? — Mrs. T. L.

A myocardial infarction is a heart attack, just a different term for the same thing. A branch of the artery serving the heart muscle became plugged (usually due to hardening of the arteries) and a portion of the heart muscle was deprived of its blood supply.

"Myocardial" refers to the heart muscle. "Infarction" means that part of the muscle was damaged.

A "syndrome" is a pattern of symptoms — in this case the aching of your arm. You doubtless have what is commonly referred to as the "shoulder-arm syndrome," which is not unusual following a heart attack, although it isn't something that necessarily happens.

Often simple aspirin helps this. That, of course, has nothing to do with such other medication as the doctor prescribes for your heart.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am being treated for high blood pressure, but have been planning a trip which would be by air, and wonder if I should cancel it. — Mrs. L. R.

Your blood pressure would not be a reason for avoiding travel in commercial planes. The cabins are pressurized, so you are as comfortable as you would be on the ground.

If you are nervous about flying — and nervous tension can affect your blood pressure — your doctor could give you a mild tranqilizer or sedative before the flight to keep you calm.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is there some kind of cosmetic that will cover a birthmark, without having plastic surgery? — P. S.

A special cosmetic called Covermark is often suggested by physicians. It can be blended to match skin tones. There may be other kinds, but that's the one I'm familiar with.

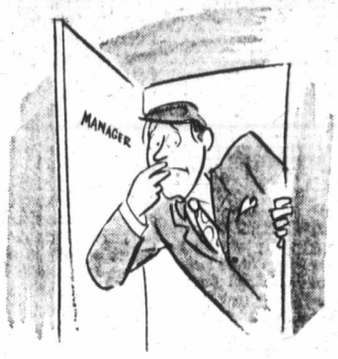
We take the edge off asking.



To start with, let's set something straight. We're in the money business. We invest money to make money, so that we can lend money. It's that simple. But, all of it isn't worth a plugged nickel if someone doesn't use it.

Which brings us to you.

And, hopefully you to us if you're thinking about a loan.

Now, the person you'll see at our place isn't some kind of financial ogre. He won't try to put you down, stare you down, or check the heels on your shoes. But most important, he wants to give you that loan. That's one of the ways he makes his money.

So you just tell him how much, how much you can afford each month, then it's up to him to work it out.

And without getting you in over your head. And, that's it. No red tape. No edge about asking.

You see, we feel two heads are better than one. We figure if two people set out to achieve goals, they might come a little easier. Your goals, and our goals. So with a Commerce Participation loan, you get more than money. You get a working partnership for achieving goals.

And that gives us still another edge over other banks. Besides taking the edge off asking in the first place.

CANADIAN IMPERIAL BANK OF COMMERCE

You and the Commerce. Together we're both stronger.

Hijackers Can Stay —Money Goes Back

ALGIERS (UPI) — Algeria, traditional haven for political dissenters, will grant asylum to a black panther hijacker and his girl friend but will return to Western Airlines the $500,000 ransom it paid the hijackers, Algerian officials said Monday.

The U.S. government has asked Algeria both for the extradition of the two hijackers — William Holder, 22, and Katherine Mary Kerkow, 21, an oceanography student, both from San Diego.

Confidence of Catholics Sought

Britain Frees Rebels

BELFAST (UPI) — Britain's secretary of state for Northern Ireland released another 75 suspected Irish Republican Army men from jail Tuesday in an effort to win the confidence of the Roman Catholic minority in the strife-torn province.

As William Whitelaw acted, a British soldier was reported killed by sniper fire in a Catholic district of Belfast, the 361st fatality in almost three years of Ulster violence and troops patrolled areas of renewed clashes in the town of Portadown and Belfast.

The latest releases reduced the number of security suspects interned without trial to 466. Whitelaw has freed 470 since March 24 when Britain imposed direct rule on Ulster to try to end Catholic-Protestant strife.

The sniper victim was hit by one of several high-velocity rounds fired at a routine foot patrol in Belfast's Ballymurphy district, a British army spokesman said. Other members of the patrol returned fire but claimed no hits.

The soldier died a few hours after rioting ended in Portadown and Belfast.

Four policemen and two civilians were injured in the overnight rock-throwing battles that raged in Portadown, 25 miles southwest of Belfast.

Although troops drove the rioters from the streets and knocked down their barricades, an army spokesman described Portadown as "very edgy" Tuesday. He said a strong security presence was being maintained, with mobile patrols acting as buffers between rival neighborhoods.

Portadown, whose 18,000 population is mostly Protestant, has been a sporadic flashpoint of sectarian strife since Britain imposed direct rule on Northern Ireland March 24.

In Belfast, an army spokesman said the New Lodge Road area, the scene of night-long clashes between Catholics and paratroopers, also was quiet.

"The trouble seems to have blown over for the moment," the spokesman said.

Car Insurance Forced Down 27 Per Cent

BOSTON (UPI) — Massachusetts car owners will receive an estimated $30 million to $40 million in refunds from car-insurance companies under a court decision that was a victory for the no-fault concept.

The Massachusetts Supreme Court, basing its decision on as excess profits statute, ruled Monday that insurance companies would have to reduce their 1972 compulsory insurance rates by 27.6 per cent and refund the difference to the insured.

"It is an absolutely tremendous victory for people," said insurance commissioner John Ryan, whose decision to cut the rates was challenged in court by the industry. "The decision by the court means a sharing of the success of no-fault for all the people."

The compulsory insurance rate for Boston in 1970 — before no fault — was $117. Before the court's ruling, the rate was $73 and will fall to around $47 as a result of the ruling.

Concorde Test Flights Cleared

Canada Lacks SST Policy

STOCKHOLM (CP) — Canada would be prepared to permit the occasional overflight of the Anglo-French supersonic Concorde aircraft for testing purposes but hasn't made up its mind whether to impose a permanent ban on commercial supersonic jets.

Environment Minister Jack Davis, in replying to a question at a news conference, said Tuesday he cannot see much objection to one or two flights for test purposes but the Canadian government has reached no policy as yet on regular supersonic use of Canadian territory.

The matter, he said, is still under investigation from an environmental viewpoint.

As for his invitation to the UN environment conference to hold a second meeting in Canada in 1977, Davis explained to reporters that not all of the major issues would likely be resolved at this conference nor in the next five years and the Canadian invitation is an assurance that issues will continue to be pursued.

He disclosed that the cabinet has authorized him to commit between $5 million and $7 million as the Canadian contribution to a proposed five-year $100 million fund to finance a permanent UN environment agency.

The United States is offering $40 million.

Take Off Fat With Home Recipe Plan

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drugstore and ask for Naran. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoonsful twice a day as needed and follow the Naran Reducing Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy, way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

The Way of Wisdom

WHILE THE CANADIAN REPRESENTATIVE was urging the United Nations environmental conference in Stockholm to hurry development of global standards of pollution control Monday an oil spill at the huge Washington refinery at Cherry Point was fouling Canadian beaches.

This was a minor spill, estimated at no more than 12,000 gallons. But the way crude oil moves on the surface of the sea, it can cover and pollute a large area with extraordinary rapidity.

At Crescent Beach, B.C., Mayor William Vander Zalm kept emergency crews working all night, hauling away sacks of oil-sodden sand and spreading thousands of bales of hay in an attempt to absorb the slick as it came ashore. And Stan Heron, one of the volunteers helping the municipal crew, spoke for many when he observed: "If they call this a minor spill, what would it be like with a so called major spill?"

As a matter of fact, it took only three seconds to check the flow of oil under pressure at the refinery dock when a valve burst. But three seconds were enough to create the mess at Crescent Beach, and at other Canadian and American resort waterfronts.

Dr. Patrick McTaggart-Cowan, of Canada's Science Council, the man who was in charge of mopping up the oil spill from the Arrow in Chedabucto Bay in 1970 — and ever since — spoke recently about the effect of a major discharge of crude in the proximity of the Strait of Juan de Fuca and the Strait of Georgia. He used the Arrow accident as a yardstick, the cost of mop-up around $4,000,000, but with ecological effects yet to be determined. There are still oil pools and coated bedrock which cannot be cleared. Some of the materials tested to break down the oil and dissipate it were more toxic than the stuff itself. In fact, there is no satisfactory method of dispersal or recovery even in still water. And where can that be found on this coast?

Dr. McTaggart-Cowan pointed out that the Arrow was a relatively small vessel — 18,000 tons dead weight. It is proposed ultimately to bring crude oil to Cherry Point in 180,000-tonners.

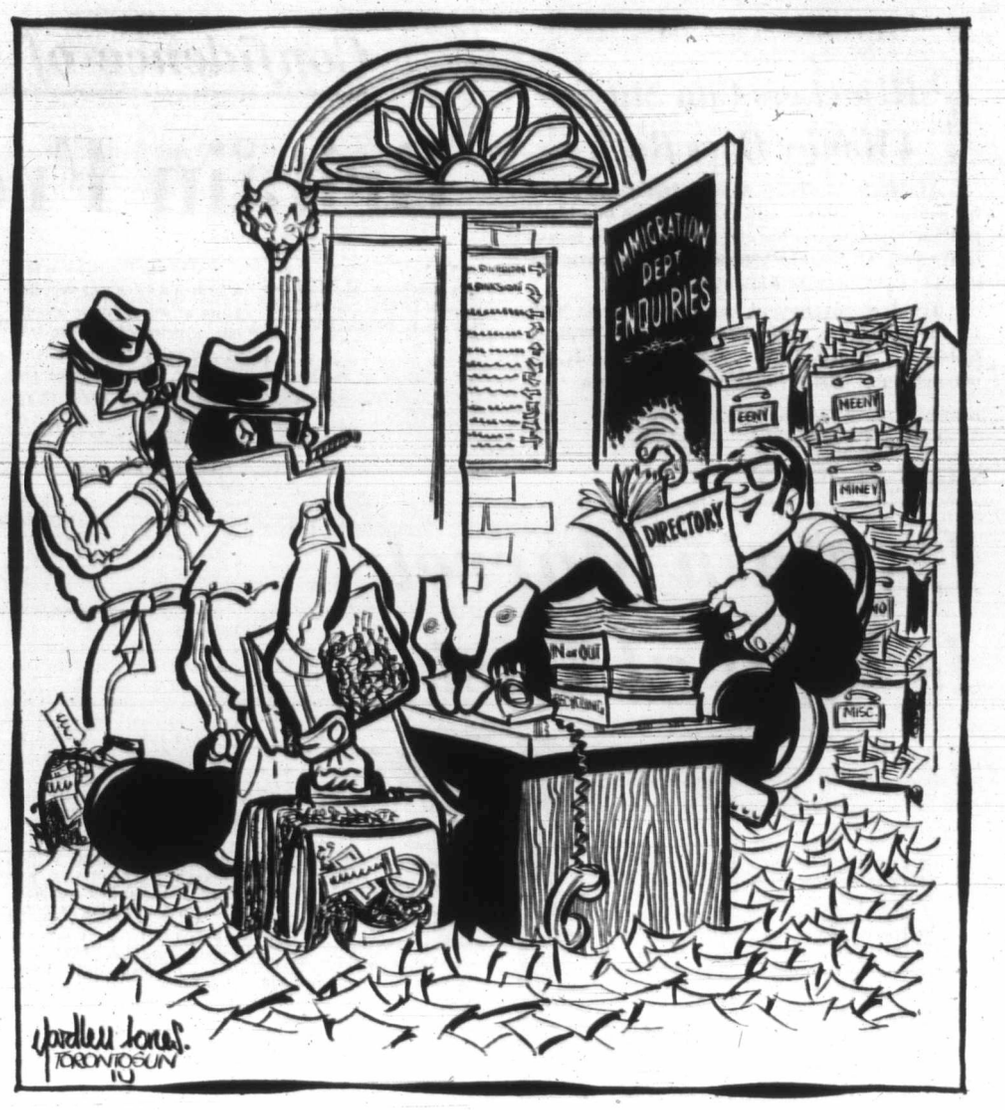
Adding to the understandable consternation of the coast dwellers hereabouts, authorities who must be assumed to know what they are talking about agree that some sort of major oil spill is "inevitable," once the tankers start the run from Alaska to Cherry Point. In fact, some say it would be reasonable to expect a spill a year.

Control by shore-based radar would be a help, but no such sensible precaution is even contemplated soon as far as anyone knows.

It seems so illogical to accept these risks — or have them thrust upon us — when there is a reasonably safe alternative: a land pipeline.

There is still a hope, if a frail one, that court action by Canadian and United States conservation groups will result in reversal of policy by the oil interests concerned, a policy approved by the United States government.

Perhaps, when the nations shortly review the law of the sea, it will be found expedient to enforce rigid controls, even to the extent of limiting the size of the oil carriers. Let it be hoped wisdom prevails in time.



"Let me see now, sir—loopholes department you say . . ."

Skin-Deep

A TROUBLED CITY looking uglier by the hour — this is Vancouver where events of recent days have dug its reputation of violence deeper than ever. If, in the past, the visual beauty of its setting has softened the hardness of its inner self, this no longer can be the case.

The little-girl kidnapping and the fire-bomb rioting; yes, and even the race track fire, point in spectacular manner to the crying need for tougher enforcement of the laws and a greater show of responsibility.

The responsibility thing, of course, is a sickness with which society generally has been stricken. In Vancouver it would seem to be acute. And perhaps now there will be renewed effort to bring it out of the depths of despair the city must be feeling.

Encouraging is the rallying to the aid of the police by volunteers in the search for the seven-year-old daughter of a guard at the B.C. Penitentiary believed to have been abducted by a man seen talking with her outside her school on Friday.

Rewards have been posted not only by the city but by co-workers of the father, the P-TA equivalent at the child's school and by anonymous donors. This, together with the 400 or more citizens offering to take part in the search, indicates a degree of responsibility. But it suggests a larger trained force is needed.

And how many people came to the aid of the police trying to halt gangs of youths ("idiot bastards" was the way Vancouver police superintendent Edward Oliver described them) trying to force their way into the Pacific Coliseum show of the touring Rolling Stones entertainment group?

The greater show of irresponsibility, of course, was in the rioters themselves who obviously had nothing more in mind than to cause trouble — real trouble with their gasoline bottle bombs to say nothing of the rocks they brought with them to injure and maim.

There is no doubt, as the police stated, that it was a well-organized effort by groups who set out deliberately to turn the rock concert into a scene of pain and bloodshed. They did not get past the gates, but in trying to do so injured 31 policemen.

And crowds of people stood by watching, many of them undoubtedly hoping to be able to testify against police for brutality, as they did following the Gastown riot. This is where irresponsibility is most depressing.

To a lesser degree, but still of a serious nature, is the responsibility that was lacking in the death-dealing fire for Exhibition Park horses. A finger of condemnation might be pointed in a number of directions here, but one thing is certain: for one reason or another, in spite of past experience and warnings, fire protection is lacking.

Surely Vancouver needs no further acts of lawlessness and calamity to bring the responsible majority of the people together in a concerted attempt to eliminate the ugliness surrounding them.

Two Commentaries On the Moscow Meeting

By LUBOR J. ZINK from Ottawa

"THE cold war is over," External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp said when President Nixon and Soviet Communist Party boss Brezhnev signed their agreement to limit U.S. and Soviet missile stockpiles.

I wish we could take Mr. Sharp's word for it. Unfortunately, he is not a reliable prophet. Events have the nasty habit of proving him wrong.

* * *

For example, Mr. Sharp declared the cold war period over and done with when Alexander Dubcek launched his attempt to "liberalize" the Stalinist regime in Czechoslovakia. When Soviet tanks and half a million Warsaw Pact troops crushed what was billed as "socialism with a human face," Mr. Sharp was surprised and disappointed.

Then, when Moscow consented to consider the long-standing NATO proposal for troop reductions along the East-West confrontation line in Europe, Mr. Sharp again declared the cold war over. Moscow continued, and in fact accelerated, the military build-up in Central Europe and the Mediterranean, as well as along NATO's northern flank, making a mockery of that assessment.

The next ending of the cold war came for Mr. Sharp with West German Chancellor Willy Brandt's signing of non-aggression treaties with Moscow and Warsaw. Once ratified, these treaties, which sanctify Soviet postwar expansion in Europe, were to melt East-West tensions away and hopefully remove the crudest monstrosity and symbol of the cold war, the Berlin Wall.

* * *

Although the Brandt treaties have now sneaked through the ratification process, the Berlin Wall isn't melting away. Nor is the rest of the physical Iron Curtain with its electrified barbed wire fences, minefields and machine gun towers. The only concession the Communists are making to the "detente" spirit is some easing of traffic through the barrier from West to East, but not to any meaningful extent in the opposite direction.

Considering the enormity of violations of basic human rights by the totalitarian regimes behind the Iron Curtain, this slight easing of their concentration camp regulations, welcome as it is, does not justify the great hopes and expectations pinned onto it in the western world.

The same goes for the current euphoria about the ongoing negotiations between the Bonn government and the Soviet puppet regime in East Germany. What the Communists are after in these talks is not removal of the causes of tensions they had created, but international "legalization" of their gangsterism. Comrade Honecker, who succeeded old Stalinist Ulbright as Moscow's satrap in Pankow, put it plainly earlier this year when he said that the impossibility of any coming together of what he calls the "socialist" and "imperialist" parts of Germany is "as certain and as clear as the fact that rain falls to the ground and not up into the sky."

The Communists are, however, always willing to negotiate arrangements which give them what they are after. In Germany, and in Europe in general, it is codification of the postwar expansion of Soviet totalitarian power which has been the root cause of cold war tensions. In the totality of East-West relations, it is acceptance of Soviet military supremacy in both conventional forces and strategic weapons.

* * *

The Brandt treaties serve the first purpose, the missile freezeup agreement Nixon signed in Moscow serves the second. In both cases the men in the Kremlin are in fact imposing their will on the democracies and making them considerably more vulnerable to Communist pressures in future negotiations or confrontations.

Had the Kremlin wanted simply a halt in the strategic arms race the type of agreement Nixon and Brezhnev signed could have been reached soon after the opening of the SALT talks in 1969. The negotiations dragged for three years because the Soviets did not want any freezeup of the strategic arsenals before they had reached not just parity but superiority in the delivery systems. The paper Nixon signed gives them the strategic edge over the U.S. they were after.

For 25 years Communist expansion was, with the exception of some of the fringe areas, kept in check solely thanks to American superiority in strategic weapons. It was this factor which made Krushchev back down in the Cuban missile crisis and in the Berlin confrontations. It is not difficult to imagine the perils that lie ahead with Soviet strategic supremacy.

* * *

My prediction therefore is that far from witnessing the end of the cold war we are entering a far more dangerous phase of the East-West conflict than we have been through so far.

By MARQUIS CHILDS from Washington

OUT of the astonishing get-together have come two solid benefits unlikely to be diminished regardless of how well or how badly the series of agreements signed with such pomp and splendor work out. One is a quite incidental increment that should be an eye-opener.

The nuclear arms limitation is in itself a step forward with a potential for the future good of mankind that is inestimable. But apart from the agreement itself is the revelation of how deeply involved the two superpowers are in amassing the instruments of annihilation. The cards are on the table and anyone can now see how far down the slippery slope we have come in assembling the stuff of doomsday.

* * *

The compromise necessary to achieve this first small step gives a dramatic picture of the competition in the whole range of nuclear weapons on land, sea and air. Stopping construction of new missile-armored submarines — the Russians had a program of building eight or nine a year — is a big advance. Yet, under the complex formula contained in the treaty, old G-class subs can be replaced with modern types at the sacrifice of a certain ratio of land-based missiles.

The urgent need in the next state-of-arms negotiation is to put a brake on the development of ever newer and more destructive weapons. The framework of the SALT talks has worked well and the intention is to move as rapidly as possible to supersede the interim agreement on offensive missiles with a permanent arrangement providing a limit like that now put on defensive missiles.

Headed by Gerard C. Smith, the American delegation was a first-rate team and the hope is that it can be kept intact. The back-stop in the White House has been Henry Kissinger, working in close collaboration with the Soviet ambassador is Washington, Anatoly Dobrynin. And at critical moments when a deadlock developed President Nixon in a frank exchange with Leonid Brezhnev pointed a way out of the stalemate.

The second important gain was the proof that the Russians really wanted these agreements and a knitting together of major elements in the future of the two great nations.

In his masterful briefing on the night the arms limitation was signed, Kissinger, with a pride of authorship, called it a landmark decision. The familiar cliches — epoch-making, history-making — fall short of characterizing this moment of pause in our time of troubles.

The hazards ahead are plain enough in the forces that would frustrate what has been done here. Those in the United States harboring all the suspicions and hatreds out of the cold war will not suspend their judgment to credit a Republican president with his Moscow achievement. But this is minor in the spectrum of public opinion.

Critics of the Nixon mission to Peking were a scattered few, most of them clinging to the shopworn illusion of a China that never was. Because great substance has come out of this meeting and because repressions inherent in the Soviet system stir passionate feeling, the protest this time will be louder.

* * *

Nevertheless, it is minor set alongside the tangle of animosities pitting China against the Soviet Union, with Indochina a tragic victim trapped in the big power vise. While Nixon and Brezhnev were sitting around the conference table the bombs were dropping with renewed violence on vital installations in Hanoi and the shelling of the cities in the south went on.

Peking and Hanoi were denouncing the Moscow meeting, with North Vietnam excoriating the Nixon duplicity, stopping short of Peking's vilification of Moscow. China's quarrel with the Soviets is accentuated by the problem of deliveries of war material through Chinese ports to be trans-shipped by rail to North Vietnam.

In Peking's vernacular the running dogs of imperialism met in the capital of communism that has betrayed Marx and Lenin to carve up the world. This last is a suspicion that is undoubtedly shared by nations outside the Communist orbit. The answer will come in how wisely and justly the two giants administer their bilateral agreements.

Russia Takes a New Look at Ulster

By DEV MURARKA from Moscow

EVER since the civil rights movement gathered strength in Northern Ireland Soviet newspapers have taken a keen interest in the subject. Most of the coverage has been extremely hostile to the British government, as can be expected, but the complex issues in Ireland have also been seen in a simplified manner, as a straightforward struggle for liberation by the Irish people.

* * *

Little or nothing has been said about the deep-rooted religious issues involved. No comment has hitherto been made to indicate the view of Moscow about the Irish Republican Army and its role. Now, however, Moscow has moved towards taking up a more defined position on the subject of the IRA.

The wariness of Soviet ideologues is understandable enough, but according to Marxist and Leninist theories terrorism is something to be frowned on and terrorists are generally held to be class enemies of the workers. Communist parties have not been encouraged to employ terrorists methods except when these happen to be part of a broader armed struggle — broader that is, than in Northern Ireland.

* * *

In earlier Soviet pronouncements about the IRA, going back to the thirties, the organization was more or less condemned as a bourgeois nationalist organization. This April, however, Pravda published two articles mostly consisting of an interview by its special correspondent with the leader of the IRA official wing.

Yuri Yasnev, the Pravda correspondent, began the articles by commenting that the IRA is today more powerful in Northern Ireland than ever before and that it was a consequence of the official policy of military repression of the Catholics which had provided recruits for the IRA.

Then, Yasnev tells the story of the split in the IRA in the words of Cathal Goulding, who claims that around about 1962 the IRA was completely broke and had lost all support from the masses. It was at this time that a decision was taken to break away from the old-fashioned mould of IRA activities and to participate in broader mass struggles on political and economic issues. Its line became pronouncedly ideological and socialist. But this was not acceptable to everyone in the IRA, some of whom wanted a purely armed struggle for national independence as they called it. The split came in 1970 and all attempts since had failed to restore unity.

Goulding, designated as the chief of the staff of the IRA, admitted that the splinter groups, the provisionals, were now attacking those belonging to the official wing.

Why, asked Yasnev, was Goulding condemning the terror campaign by the provisionals when it was the official wing of the IRA which had burned down the house of the Stormont Speaker, Ivan Neill, and an administrative building in Derry. Goulding answered that the two things were different in character. The official IRA was using arms only as a retaliatory measure against official terror and violence and those politically responsible for this. He added that his organization did not show any mercy to informers and agents provocateurs.

Goulding also claimed that the official wing would stop using arms if the British army stopped arrests and torture, released all political prisoners and put an end to what he termed "its terror." But he condemned explosions in civilian centres as harmful and against the unity of the civil rights movement. He agreed that it created alienation between the Protestants and Catholics.

On this note the interview ended. Yasnev made no comment on the remarks made by Goulding but the implication is that the Soviet Communist Party is now qualifying its approval for IRA terror in Northern Ireland limiting it to the extent that it is directly related to military and official targets as part of the liberation struggle. Otherwise, acts of terror are ideologically wrong in its view. What the Soviet press says may make very little difference to the situation in Northern Ireland, but it will have a perceptible influence on the Communist supporters of the IRA at home and abroad. For this reason it ought not to be overlooked.

Coming Up with a CBC Winner

By WAYNE HOWELL

J. B. shrugged his shoulders. "What's two million," he said.

"I didn't know you could quote from C. D. Howe," said B. J.

"I wasn't quoting anyone; I was talking about the cost of The Whiteoaks of Jalna," said The Whiteoaks of Jalna," J. B. said. J. B. and his assistant, mortem in the CBC executive suite.

* * *

"What do we do now J. B.? Jalna was going to be our answer to the Forsythe Saga. It was going to make an international reputation for the CBC . . . but we never made a sale to a major network," sighed B. J.

"We've just got to try again," said J. B.

"That's going to cost more money J. B.," cautioned B. J.

"B. J. I've been a CBC executive longer than you have and I'm going to tell you something — man to man. You'll never make a top surgeon if you faint at the sight of blood and you'll never make it to the top in the CBC if a little red ink in the ledgers makes you squeamish. Buck up B. J. Remember — it's not like it was our money! I've decided that the trouble with Jalna was the Whiteoaks. All they ever did was talk — that killed our chances with ABC, CBS, and NBC right off the bat," said J. B.

"I get you — we should have picked a family that went in for a little violence now and then. I bet they'd love the saga of the black Donnellys in the States," said B. J.

"I considered it B. J. But too much violence would kill the European sales," said J. B.

"We could resurrect the old Plouffe Family series," said B. J.

* * *

"I considered it B. J. But the kids are all separatists now and Momma Plouffe is doing time for disobeying a court injunction. I've got something better B. J. I've studied the market and now I think I know what makes a commercial success. There will be no mistakes this time — the CBC is going to come up with a winner," said J. B.

"What are you going to call it?" asked B. J.

"The Grouse Family."

"Say, I like the sound of that J. B. It has a nice Canadian ring to it," said B. J.

"Just listen to this. The family consists of a widow and four children. To keep the family together, Mom forms a band with her kids and tours the country singing corny pop lyrics to a rock beat. Whenever we run short of plot, we'll just let them do a number," said J. B.

"Fantastic J. B. — the sheer banality of it! We'll sell this one to the American networks or I'll cry for Seven Days!" said B. J.

Man Creates All the Problems . . .

First Enemy Is Us

. . . Now Threatening All Life on the Planet

The Deadly Numbers Game

First of a Series
By GAMINI SENEVIRATNE

The main problem is, of course, people. The current UN Conference on the Human Environment at Stockholm has, perhaps wisely, arranged its agenda with the problem of population control only indirectly (if always) in the background. But there is no escaping the fact that human numbers is the single great factor in any shaping of the environment.

In the beginning there were no men. For 1,590,000 of the 1,600,000 years that man is generally taken to have been around, he was a hunting nomad occupying, at most, one-third of the earth's 58 million square miles of land area.

In this time the human population could not have exceeded five million by much. Since then, till the middle of the 17th century, when census figures came to be kept, a variety of projections based mainly on archaeological evidence testifies to a steady growth in numbers.

At the time of Christ the figure is 250 million, in 1650 it is 500 million. In 1830, after (say) 1,600,000 years on the planet, Homo Sapiens reached the magical figure of 1,000 million or one billion.

Clearly this was many times more than could have been achieved except in defiance of nature.

The date was five years after George Stephenson, the British engineer, built the first railway from Stockton to Darlington. That, it is idly argued, was the time to think about the environment, if not of population control.

Since then the population growth has been quite spectacular. In 100 years, in 1930, the figure had doubled to 2,000 million.

Sir Julian Huxley was one who forecast (in 1950) that human numbers would increase to 3,000 million by the year 2000. He was widely criticised for spreading gloom and alarm unnecessarily.

Sit Julian was disturbingly in error. In 1964 world population, 36 years before his predicted date, was 3,220 million. Today there is no shortage of forecasts causing the same kind of "unnecessary alarm."

Frighteningly, some may err on the same side as Sir Julian, though the mathematical projection — that fewer than 450 years from 1972 the land space per man will be about one square yard — may never be achieved.

Be that as it may, the UN conference in Sweden is working on a population figure of 7,000 million by 2000 AD. Most of the ingredients are already here present; the 1969 data sheet of the Population Reference Bureau estimated the figure to be 3,551 million.

Planning future development with due regard to environmental factors does not, as conference Secretary-General Maurice Strong, of Canada, and others have been at pains to point out to many meetings leading up to Stockholm, mean a head-on collision between man and nature.

But it is true, nevertheless, that man's activities and his unnaturally large numbers (in either order of precedence) are directly behind every single major problem which is now threatening life on the planet. Strong himself has quoted Pogo: "We have seen the enemy and he is us."

At the basic numbers level itself any plans nature may have had have been confounded many times over. It is natural for people to procreate. To curb this natural tendency nature would have barriers; elemental agencies limiting births and the span of life, even limiting the area in which human life can be.

Many of these hurdles were cleared, gradually, over several thousand years. Clothing, artificial shelter and herding and cultivation made it possible for man to spread out further than nature intended. But till recently the fundamental scheme of things was not threatened.

The problem began in Europe following the Industrial Revolution which not only brought more and better food and material wealth but better health facilities, know-how, medical technology and wonder drugs. The result in industrial Europe was first a sharp decline in death rate, followed by a steady decline in birth rate.

The falling birth rate in these now-called developed lands is explained by the new society's changing attitude to children; from being regarded as potential workers and producers in an agrarian society, they now become consumers.

In the non-industrialising, colonised, agrarian countries the improved medical care which spread to them again caused a fall in death rates. But since there was no increase in material wealth and, therefore, no change in traditional attitudes towards children, there was no fall in the birth rate.

The theory does fit the facts rather more than less, though even in the fastest-growing communities in the developing world, with all the advantages of imported medicine, the birth rate has risen only marginally.

The point which stands out is that the successful campaigns against epidemic diseases like malaria, smallpox and cholera, after the Second World War, saw the most dramatic drop in death rates in lands where they were epidemic. The population explosion had begun.

An immediate result of booming populations is' urbanisation. The drift is as old as post-nomadic man, though cities today are much less "natural" and much more "permanent" growths. All the modern problems of pollution and ecological disturbance are compounded in cities.

In industrialised countries the urbanisation trend has been far more gradual than elsewhere. The percentage of urban dwellers in the population of the U.S. grew from six in 1800 to 40 in 1900 to 1970's 70.

The problems of massive and permanent concentrations of people are always numerous and complex. In modern industrial society the high demands in material comforts — ample heating water, private transport, for example — compound them.

The cleavage between rich and poor, those who can afford the cities goodies and those who cannot afford to get out, is accentuated.

The vicious in-fighting natural in any overcrowded menagerie becomes that much worse when slums and residences, and all the representative features of wealth and poverty, are so close together.

The one thing in favor of cities in industrial countries is that the national wealth can sustain them up to a point, at least.

The urban drift in developing countries is more disturbing. The lure of gold in city streets may be the same, but the need to stay on the land is great and the cities themselves have so little to offer.

More, the growth of urban populations is infinitely more rapid in developing countries, particularly in Africa. Between 1950 and 1960 the increase in developing countries was more than twice as fast as that in developed.

The problem of over-urbanisation is perhaps a foresight of what is to come globally. Population explosions, localised to individual civilisations, have happened before in history; like the Mayas of Central America, towards the 8th century AD.

The Mayas moved from their cities to the jungle swamps of Yucatan to escape their own crushing numbers. They adopted new religious practices of human sacrifice. But they collapsed.

It is the whole human species and all life with it which is now having to face the threat of numbers.

Now It's Our Turn To Pollute, Says Brazil

By LEONARD GREENWOOD
From Rio de Janeiro

Brazil is likely to throw a monkey wrench into the works of the current U.N. Conference on the Human Environment at Stockholm.

It will warn the rich developed nations of the world not to use the alarming rise in the world's pollution as an excuse to hold back the industrialization of the underdeveloped countries.

Brazil will tell delegates from 130 other countries that if the world is polluted it is the fault of the United States, Europe, the Soviet Union and Japan.

And it will add that if anyone has the responsibility for cleaning up the mess it is exactly those countries which, while creating the pollution, also enjoy the benefits that industrialization brings.

Brazil's viewpoint is bound to exasperate other delegates, especially the scientists who know that efforts to combat pollution can be successful only on an international scale.

But it is the only viewpoint that Brazil's leaders want to see and it is one that is likely to find some favor with other developing nations.

Fundamentally the view is based on the fear that the countries that have made it and that have now begun to realize what their success has cost the world in pollution will now try to "freeze" world development at the present level so that pollution can be brought under control.

This, in Brazil's view would leave the rich nations to continue enjoying the fruits of industrialization until the world is cleaned up while the underdeveloped world would be condemned to remain in poverty and misery.

Foreign Minister Mario Gibson Barbosa is one of several government leaders who have put forward the view that poverty, hunger and underdevelopment itself are some of the worst forms of pollution of the human environment. And Brazil has more than its share of all three.

But in the past few years Brazil's rapid economic expansion has moved it into a special position among the underdeveloped countries.

The flood of foreign investment capital shows clearly the world's confidence that Brazil has a good chance of making it to the top.

Brazil is determined that nothing will stand in its way. Every attempt, real or imaginary, to block this progress is attacked with all the fury that Brazil can summon.

On the eve of the Stockholm conference, however, one powerful voice challenged the government's policy and its official attitude toward the conference.

The Sao Paulo newspaper, Jornal da Tarde, said the government's whole approach to pollution was wrong because it was looking at it from an ideological and political point of view.

Control of pollution, it said, need not interfere with Brazil's industrial progress if proper steps were taken to prevent deterioration of the environment.

The newspaper concluded: "Some day and for a much higher price Brazil will have to do what the United States, Britain and other industrialized countries now try to do.

"There the problems arose because of ignorance and lack of foresight. In Brazil it will be created by the prejudices of some government executives."

Atomic Wastes Pile Up For Future Generations

By ROBERT C. COWEN, from Washington

America's atomic waste managers are like a gum-chewing boy in a fancy drawing-room. They have something to dispose of, but they don't know where to put it.

Hopes for burying highly radioactive wastes in salt formations have been postponed as the complexities of this procedure become more evident.

Now a committee of the National Academy of Sciences is urging the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) to look further into the possibility of injecting the hot stuff into deep, impermeable bedrock.

It's a proposal that has raised the apprehension of some academy members in the past. Nevertheless, the committee on radioactive waste management of the National Research Council, the academy's operational arm, thinks deep rock storage just might work at the AEC's Savannah River plant.

This wouldn't solve the whole problem of what to do with America's radioactive wastes temporarily stored at present in underground tanks at several sites. But it might take care of at least one major wastemaking plant.

It will take tens of thousands of years, even hundreds of thousands of years in the case of plutonium, for the wastes to become innocuous. Engineers can dry them to salt cakes. They can immobilize them in glass, concrete, ceramics, or asphalt. Whatever their final form, the wastes' ultimate respository will have to keep them away from all forms of earthly life for an incredibly long time.

Many experts think carefully-selected salt formations could do this. The salt tends to be in relatively stable geological areas. It generally is out of the path of ground water or it would have dissolved long ago. It should flow around the wastes and seal them off as their heat softens the salt.

The AEC thought it had a suitable repository in an abandoned salt mine near Lyons, Kansas. But as William H. Hambleton, director of the Kansas Geological Survey, puts it, the site turned out to be "a bit like Swiss cheese" in terms of the ways water might eventually get into it.

Also, the theoretical studies of safety in salt storage now seem oversimplified. Experts are taking a new look at them. While salt storage may yet turn out to be satisfactory, it seems a little further off than appeared to be the case a few years ago.

This is the background against which the academy committee suggests the AEC make a thorough investigation of the possibility of pumping wastes, in liquid or semi-liquid form, into underground rock at the Savannah plant.

The deep formations seem to be safely impermeable. Detailed studies of water movement, physical and chemical studies of the rock, and so forth should confirm whether or not the committee is right in judging there is a "reasonable prospect" that hot wastes could be stored there.

In the scheme suggested by E. I. Du Pont de Nemours and Co. which operates the Savannah plant, up to 100 million gallons of wastes would be stored in excavated caverns. These would be bedrock some 1,500 feet below grade.

A majority of a committee of the academy's earth sciences division reportedly expressed grave doubts about the safety of bedrock storage in 1966. However, in 1969, an academy review panel concluded the du Pont proposal had enough promise to be worth investigation. Now a new report again urges its study.

In doing this, the report recommends that, whatever disposal method may finally be adopted at the site, it should "be capable of protecting the biosphere from these wastes for not less than 1,000 years."

"Long as this may seem, it's only a fraction of a per cent of the time the wastes should be kept out of circulation.

Indeed, the long time scale is the crux of the disposal problem. Tough though the technical problems may be, engineers very likely will develop a satisfactory long-term disposal method.

But in doing this, we are committing many hundreds of future generations to the perpetual care of dangerous materials likely to be produced only during a short span of human history. During the next century, waste-free fusion power may well phase out the waste-making nuclear reactors.

Noting this at the United Nations Atoms for Peace Conference at Geneva last September, French specialists Y. Sousselier and J. Pradel urged that waste management be brought under international control.

Like the gum-chewing boy, waste-making nations can hang onto the material in temporary storage for a little while longer. But when they eventually dispose of it, they must put it where unsuspecting future generations won't innocently poke into it.

★ ★ ★

The best way to do this, the French experts said, would be at relatively few, well-known, well-marked, and well-documented international sites.

Union Pickets Propane Users

A new wave of picketing in the propane gas lockout, which hit three firms in Greater Victoria Tuesday and hampered B.C. Tel operations, is expected to expand today to various other Vancouver Island locations.

"There will be some more surprises in store Wednesday," said Don Dent, business agent with the International Brotherhood of Teamsters in Victoria.

The biggest effect was felt when pickets appeared at B.C. Tel's equipment centre at McKenzie and Quadra.

The picket line was not crossed by members of the B.C. Federation of Telephone Workers, something that stopped installation, removal and repair of telephones in Greater Victoria from 7:30 a.m. until 2 p.m. when the pickets left.

The move marked the first day of picketing against some of the firms that are using gas from the companies involved in the lockout.

Two of the four firms — Cigas and Vigas — have eight outlets on Vancouver Island.

Canadian Propane and Northwest Propane are also involved on the Mainland.

Transportation Labor Relations, which bargains for the companies, launched the lockout 12 days ago on the Island and three days later throughout B.C. The lockout followed selective strike action in the Vancouver area.

The Teamsters are hoping to force TLR back to the bargaining table by putting the pressure on customer companies that have gas from the four firms in tanks on their property.

The tanks are generally owned by the gas companies and the union says use of their concents is tantamount to doing business with the four companies.

While the B.C. Tel tank is a large one, bolted into place, the situation wasn't quite the same when pickets hit O.K. Paving on Keating Cross Road. The small tank was removed from the site by the company in the back of a pickup truck. The pickets withdrew.

Pickets also arrived at Van Isle Moulding and Millwork Ltd., but only maintained an information picket line since employees had already gone to work.

Visiting Youth Group Loses Camping Gear

Members of a youth group from Auburn, Wash., who were in the Victoria area for a brief visit during the weekend, got a bit of a surprise Sunday night when they went to their tents to bed down for the night.

The tents weren't where they were supposed to be in Thetis Lake Park — someone had stolen them.

Saanich police said the thief or thieves took two tents, each six feet square, a lantern, an outdoors stove, two back packs, clothing, film and other items.

The visitors, members of a group called the Green Rivers Valley Pathfinder Club, went back home without the missing items.

Oak Bay Passes Bylaw Change

An Oak Bay council public hearing to modify a bylaw to prohibit buildings of the same design in the same block lasted just three minutes Monday.

Mrs. Muriel Andrews, 1050 Deal, supported the amendment to the zoning bylaw on behalf of the Windsor Park Neighborhood Group saying she hoped it would keep Oak Bay a residential area.

Following the council general meeting it was pointed out that a letter had been sent to council by solicitor Ian Stewart on behalf of Stanrick Developments Ltd.

Stewart said his clients were building five single-family dwellings on Clive Drive in the municipality.

The letter said that the bylaw was discriminatory and that the council had no power to legislate in that way.

But the amendment was passed without dissent by council.

Rhodesia Bans Outside Help

The order will prevent the African National Council among others from accepting funds from groups such as the Organization of African Unity, from which it had been hoping to get donations to put itself on a firm financial footing.

Observers in Salisbury saw the order as a first move by the government toward banning the council.

$4,000 Award

Biggest Bursary To Saanich Girl

One of the biggest university scholarships in Greater Victoria's history — one for $4,000 — has been awarded to a 17-year-old Saanich girl by the International Union of Operating Engineers.

The winner is Sonya Lukaitis, a straight-A Grade 12 student at Mount Douglas High School, who wants to become an interior designer and possibly an architect. She is a daughter of Frank and Ruth Lukaitis. Her father is a member of the union.

With her for the presentation of the scholarship Tuesday night was her principal John Lowther who said he had checked with Greater Victoria School Board and was told no scholarship awarded locally had ever reached the $4,000 figure before.

"I think it is an incredible service that this union does," said Lowther of the scholarship which has been awarded annually since 1962.

On hand for the presentations were Rowland Hill of Toronto, a vice-president with the operating engineers, and Ed Callan of Victoria, an international representative.

The scholarship involves payments of $1,000 for each of four years. It is made available to sons or daughters of the union's 28,000 members in Canada. Two others are awarded in the U.S. The union's membership in both countries tops 400,000.

Sonya, who lives at 3982 Oakwood, Saanich, said she intends to spend one year at University of Victoria before moving to the University of Manitoba.

"I like art and the field I have chosen is my favorite field," she said.

Strike Idles Freighters

TOKYO (UPI) — A three-day-old merchant seamen's strike left hundreds of ocean-going freighters idle in Japanese ports Tuesday while mountains of cargo piled up on the docks. The general strike started Sunday after the 160,000 members of the All-Japan Seamen's Union refused to work on ocean-going ships.

Swedes Blast U.S. Ecocide

By Joe Alex Morris Jr.
Colonist-Los Angeles Times Service

STOCKHOLM — The United States was sharply criticized at the world environment conference here for causing widespread ecological destruction in Vietnam.

Palme did not directly name the United States, but there was little doubt who he was talking about in addressing 111 other national delegations from all over this increasingly polluted world.

"The immense destruction brought about by indiscriminate bombing, by large-scale use of bulldozers and herbicides, is an outrage, sometimes described as ecocide, which requires urgent international attention," he said.

The Swedish government chief said it was "shocking" that the United Nations and the Red Cross have only tentatively broached the subject. "We fear that the active use of these methods is coupled with a passive resistance to discuss them," he added.

Palme thus brought into the second day of the "official" conference the hottest theme of the several semi-official and unofficial meetings running parallel to the UN conference on the human environment. Vietnam and other politically sensitive issues are beyond the purview of the official conference, and the intent of the organizers was to siphon off discussion into such groups as the environment forum and the totally independent Dai Dong.

Dai Dong officially opened its own study programs of ecocide in Vietnam in the Swedish Student Union House a few miles from the UN conference. It is also a major theme of the environment forum.

Despite Palme's sharp criticism, two members of the Swedish delegation resigned. They demanded that Palme introduce a resolution condemning U.S. ecocide in Vietnam.

After Palme's unexpected statement, chief U.S. delegate Russell Train formally committed Washington to contribute $40 million over a five-year period to the proposed new international body to coordinate and control environmental management. He said the United States favored a $100 million fund — far less than the amount suggested by conference secretary-general Maurice Strong — and a 27-nation commission to be integrated into the economic and social council (UNESCO).

Mounties Checking Terrorist

OTTAWA (CP) — Solicitor-General Jean-Pierre Goyer confirmed Tuesday that the RCMP is checking a reported stay in Canada by a Japanese citizen who took part in the terrorist killings at Tel Aviv airport.

The matter of a stay in Montreal by Kozo Okamoto, 21, lone survivor of a trio of Japanese who turned machine-guns and grenades on a crowd at the Israeli airport, is "subject to inquiry," Goyer said in reply to Commons questions by Eldon Woolliams (PC-Calgary North).

Woolliams asked whether Okamoto had any contacts with the terrorist Front de Liberation du Quebec during a stay reported to have started in November, 1971, and to have lasted until March 4.

Goyer gave no details, saying only that the matter is under investigation. When the investigation is completed, Woolliams said, it may show that Okamoto had no visa for a stay in Canada.

Dig Big

Big dig goes on as Yonge Street extension to Toronto subway crawls northward. Battery-operated train is shown carrying concrete slabs to line 16-foot diameter tunnel.

Short Supply

$62 Gold —And Up

LONDON (UPI) — A new gold rush prompted by a commercial shortage of the metal pushed prices to record peaks in Europe's free bullion markets Tuesday.

In London the price closed at an all-time high of $62.37 per ounce, breaking the previous record set Monday with a one-day increase of $2.82 during Tuesday's trading.

The rush to buy gold was similar in the other major bullion center in Zurich, where the price reached $62.25 per ounce during trading Tuesday before closing at $62. The previous high in Switzerland was $60 during trading May 31.

In Frankfurt, the price Tuesday set a West German record at $59.22 per ounce, 73 cents above the previous record established June 2. In France, where the market is controlled, the price Tuesday was $58.16 per ounce or 97 cents higher than on Monday.

Dealers in various bullion centres called the trading Tuesday hectic or very busy.

"Obviously some operators believe the price can go still higher," one dealer said.

One British firm, Sharps, Pixley Ltd., has said that unless more gold is made available to markets, either by producers or hoarders, the price is likely to rise further.

The price of gold has climbed steadily for most of this year despite the fact that the dollar, although devalued, has not been under any particular pressure and foreign exchange markets have stayed calm. Most previous gold rushes have been directly connected with a loss of confidence in the dollar and other paper currencies.

At $62 per ounce in the free market, the price of gold is 63 per cent higher than the official U.S. price of $38 per ounce on which the dollars value is based.

Car Sales Zoomed In May

By CANADIAN PRESS

The Big Three North American car manufacturers had record sales during May in Canada.

Dealers for General Motors of Canada Ltd. sold 43,216 cars and trucks during May, up 15.2 per cent over sales the previous May.

Sales by dealers for Ford Motor Co. of Canada Ltd. totalled 34,569 units, with a 28-per-cent gain over the previous May.

A 30.7-per-cent increase by dealers for Chrysler Canada Ltd. pushed sales to 22,362 cars and trucks for May this year.

Doman Figures Bigger

DUNCAN — Six months figures to April 30, released by Doman Industries Ltd. on Tuesday, show that earnings per common share rose to 84 cents for the period, compared with 30 cents for the same period last year.

Sales for the period were up by almost a third to $12.6 million. Operating profit is $2.68 million against $1.14 million last year.

Expansion activities include the new mill at Saltair, that could be operating next month if current pipefitting and electrical work is completed. It is halted with the construction lockout.

Work has commenced on the company's new headquarters building in Duncan, with the foundation poured and the contract let.

Chemical Firm Looks West

By GEORGE GIBSON
Colonist Business Editor

Canadian Industries Ltd. appears to have set its corporate aim at something bigger in the way of marketing and manufacturing in western Canada.

The well-known chemical company, whose connections here are associated with Bapco Paint and the explosives plant at James Island, off Sidney, has diversified into other fields, and dropped out of another, according to an announcement.

CIL has quit the custom bag packaging business, which included a plant in Winnipeg and one in New Westminster, but has gone into a firm that designs and constructs chemical plants and industrial pollution abatement processes.

Other firms now connected with CIL are one that provides environmental surveys for industry and government; a geophysical exploration service; a company that provides destruction of industrial wastes and a mining equipment distributor.

Wilson was in Victoria to speak to members of the Victoria Home Builders Association.

"While we don't anticipate a mortgage problem this year," he said, "this new legislation ... could be most helpful in ensuring that the industry can meet the growing demand for housing in the years ahead."

Remember Corfam? Du Pont abandoned it last year as a leather substitute at a substantial write-off cost. However, word has now arrived that the $6 million inventory was bought by the George Newman and Co. of Boston.

Former marketing manager for Du Pont of Canada, Mike Cerro of Montreal, resigned to work for the Canadian branch of Newman and has opened up sales offices and warehousing facilities in Montreal.

The company is bringing out a new porous-coated product at the same time. With leather prices sky-rocketing, the Newman firm predicts a bright future.

Utah International, which operates a major copper mine and mill at Port Hardy, has signed coal contracts with Japan and some European countries for between $700 million and $1.12 billion. The coal will come from Australia.

Utah is among the companies looking at the Sukunka coal properties north and east of Prince George.

Leading magazine in U.S. advertising revenue in the first quarter of this year is TV Guide, with a $35.1 million showing, up $6.3 million from the previous year. Time, second at $32.7 million, led in ad pages at 850.91 while TV Guide was second at 831.99.

Rail Rule Confusing

OTTAWA (CP) — There still appears to be some confusion over just what the Supreme Court of Canada decided in its decision May 1 on an application by the Kootenay and Elk Railway Co.

The B.C. railway wants to build an 80-mile line from Line Creek to Roosville within the province and thus give CP Rail some competition in hauling coal to Roberts Bank.

Transport Minister Don Jamieson said in the Commons May 26:

"The effect of the Supreme Court ruling was to permit the applicant (Kootenay) to go back and reapply to the Canadian transport commission.

However an official of the railway was quoted in Vancouver as saying the decision was a green light allowing his company to hook up with Burlington Northern Railway. It then would carry the coal through the northeastern U.S. and then back into B.C. to Roberts Bank superport for transport to Japan.

The Canadian transport commission admits privately that it is somewhat confused over the court decision.

For example, the court rendered an opinion, rather than a judgment. It is generally conceded in legal circles that an opinion has less weight in law than does a judgment.

The court opinion said the transport commission, in rejecting the Kootenay application, made a major legal error.

The commission had ruled that the Railway Act barred common carriers, such as Burlington Northern, from interchanging traffic with railways that are not common carriers, such as Kootenay and Elk.

Mr. Justice Roland Martland said this was not so. The act doesn't prohibit such transfers.

But the Supreme Court opinion was silent on what the commission saw as another major obstacle to the Kootenay application.

This was the authority the Burlington Northern has to cross into Canada to pick up coal from Kootenay.

Normally, U.S. lines apply to Parliament for the right to enter Canada. Burlington Northern made no such application.

The commission ruling said the border spur-line arrangement could be used only between a railway and an industry. It said Kootenay was not an industry and some other authority must be found.

The Kootenay application also depended upon crossing or running along CP Rail tracks. Such an arrangement was dependent upon an agreement between CP Rail and Kootenay and no such arrangement had been made.

For these reasons, the transport commission says it will await a further application from either Kootenay or CP Rail before varying its decision.

China Bonanza Seen Later

A B.C. government study suggests there is little chance of an early export trade bonanza for Canada in China.

The study, released this week, says "the stakes in economic terms are not very great, even though China's external trade is expected to double in the next decade."

Industrial minister Waldo Skillings said in a statement that a gradual but steadily increasing growth market awaits those who "seize the initiative and make themselves and their products known to the Chinese."

But China's total exports and imports reached only $4.2 billion in 1970 and Canada's share comprised only $142 million in exports to China and $25 million in imports, the study says.

The study says it is unrealistic to expect to be able to develop an important market for consumer goods in China now or in the near future.

"Without a doubt the importation of capital equipment and essential materials is of immediate and primary interest to the Chinese," the study says.

China also has expressed interest in transportation equipment such as trucks and locomotives, and iron and steel mill products. The study says automotive firms may find export possibilities in China.

Penn Central Warrant Ends

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A fugitive warrant for retired Brig. Gen. Olbert Lassiter, wanted in Philadelphia for questioning in the Penn Central railroad case, was dismissed Monday when Lassiter agreed to return voluntarily.

Lassiter, a retired Air Force officer, and two former Penn Central executives, were accused in January of diverting more than $21 million of the railroad's funds for their own use. The railroad is now bankrupt.

NOTICE OF INQUIRY

Take notice that, pursuant to Section 14 of the Pollution Control Act, 1967 the Director of the Pollution Control Branch will hold a public inquiry commencing at 9:30 a.m. on November 7, 1972 at the Christian Education Centre, 421 St. Paul Street, Kamloops, British Columbia.

The Inquiry is being held to consider the technical matters bearing upon and to determine the measures which must be adopted by the food processing, and agricultural oriented industries as well as those remaining sectors of industry in British Columbia which have not yet been the subject of such an Inquiry, for the control of discharges to water and/or land and/or air to satisfactorily ensure that pollution will not be caused in accordance with the Pollution Control Act, 1967.

Written submissions are to be received by the undersigned (in ten copies) on, or before September 15, 1972, and are invited from persons or organizations proposing to attend this Inquiry.

As provided in the Pollution Control Act, 1967, the Director will determine his own procedures for the Inquiry and this may require giving of additional evidence under oath by anyone who has made a submission in accordance with this Notice. Only evidence pertaining to matters of a technical nature relevant to the Inquiry and falling within the intent of the Pollution Control Act, 1967 may be presented at the Inquiry.

An Information Sheet elaborating upon the terms of reference and procedures to assist interested parties in the preparation and submission of briefs for the Inquiry is available upon request from the undersigned.

Shamrocks Hammered By Charging Burrards

VANCOUVER — A second-period collapse Tuesday night dropped Victoria Shamrocks into second place in the Western Lacrosse Association.

The Islanders, who had moved up with three straight victories, were outscored by 7-0 in the middle 20 minutes and went on to take a 13-4 thumping from Vancouver Burrards.

The same clubs meet tonight in Victoria, giving the Shamrocks a chance to pull even by evening the score against the rugged Mainlanders.

Shamrocks got off to a great start, Ken Alexander, Dave Thompson and Ranjit Dillon scoring in the first few minutes to ring up a 3-0 lead, progressively worse. The hard-checking Burrards kept the high-scoring brothers, Ivan and Brian Thompson, pointless and ran it up steadily when the Victoria defence crumbled.

The efforts of Skip Chapman enabled Shamrocks to go into the second period at 3-2 but even his brilliance couldn't stop the largely-unchecked Burrards in the middle 20 minutes and it was 3-9 for the last period.

It was the fourth time this season that the Islanders have taken a second-period trouncing and the ninth time in 11 games they have outscored in the middle third of the game.

In their three previous worst efforts they were 1-8, 3-11 and 2-9 and they have been outscored, 67-32, in the second period while holding a 105-62 margin in the other two periods.

RALLY FAILS

They didn't come close to making it back Tuesday, Jack Kastelein ended a drought of about 40 minutes when he scored early in the third period but Burrards got the other three goals of the period.

Minus Charn Dhillon, Dennis Somner and Lonnie Restell, Shamrocks dressed Gary Austin, Muzz Bryant, Jerry Bains and Brian Travelbea Tuesday. For tonight's game they will suit up junior-stars Norm Baker and Jim Lynch and Gord Osinchuk of Nanaimo Labatts.

Game time is 8:30.

Richmond Roadrunners, Canadian Minto Cup champions last season, crushed Victoria McDonald's Bread, 15-7, before a crowd of 698 fans at Memorial Arena Tuesday night.

But, despite the loss, McDonald's clung to second place in the Pacific Junior "A" Lacrosse League by one point over the Roadrunners, who have two games in hand.

Roadrunners led only 5-4 after the first period and 8-7 at the end of 40 minutes but turned on a display of power to score seven unanswered goals in a third-period spree.

Scoring was well spread among members of the Richmond team with Bob Tasker scoring three goals and Jerry Pinder, Dave Durante and Harvey Olsen getting two each. The other goals were scored by Roy Crowe, Brian Tasker, Rico Bellusci, Ron Pinder, Robert Sawka and Jack Buchanan.

Jim Lynch led McDonald's scoring with two goals and the other scorers were Glen Neuman, Norm Baker, Jee-Van Dillon, Danny Green and Tom Somner.

John Hamilton and Bill Robertson, who took over at the 14-minute mark of the third period when the score was 12-7, combined for 48 saves for McDonald's.

Roadrunners showed far better ball control throughout and beat Victoria to interceptions and loose balls, particularly in the third period.

The game was played under protest by Richmond because of McDonald's use of Somner, a three-year veteran of the Western Lacrosse Association who was dropped Monday by the Victoria Shamrocks.

Victoria had requested permission to use Somner to league commissioner Keith McEachern, who in turn put the matter before the other clubs. All clubs in the five-team league agreed to Somner playing with the exception of Richmond.

Jack Lundquist hurled a five-hitter at Heywood Avenue Park Tuesday.

His efforts helped Juan de Fuca Sporting Goods defeat move to within two points of Bell's Men's Wear, leaders of the Stuffy McGinnis Men's Softball League.

Bill Polz replaced starter Don Clark on the mound for Six Mile House after he had given up a run per inning for the first four.

But Polz was greeted in the top of the fifth inning by a bases-empty home run, hit by Terry Hoy. He gave up three more runs on three hits in the sixth inning and Ron Griffis smacked another bases-empty homer in the seventh inning.

Lundquist had a one-hitter going for him until the bottom of the fourth inning when Tom Baxter hit a bases-empty home run.

At Sooke, Ron Fedosenko pitched a seven-hitter, striking out 10 batters, as Sooke Merchants defeated Labatts, 10-3.

Losing pitcher Bob Harris gave up 12 hits but made up for this somewhat by cracking a three-run homer for his team's only runs.

Burger Chef, Painters Fuel and Menzies Plumbing and Heating were winners Tuesday night in the week-long Greater Victoria Babe Ruth Leagues baseball tournament.

Burger Chef edged Shelbourne Plaza Texaco, 10-7, at Bullen Park, Painters Fuel blasted Wheaton Construction, 15-1, at Lambrick Park and Menzies defeated Mandels Interiors, 13-8, at Reynolds Road Park.

They join Cedar Hill Nursery, Oakcrest Foods and Frank Browne Construction in the second round.

On Monday, Cedar Hill Nursery edged Patterson Construction, 6-5, Oakcrests beat Optimists, 11-6, and Frank Browne downed Oak Bay Optimists, 9-6.

Docherty-Hibernian Clash Ignites Scottish Soccer

GLASGOW, Scotland (AP) — Tommy Docherty, Scottish soccer team manager, Tuesday named 18 players for the mini World Cup in Brazil after a bitter row with the Hibernian club of Edinburgh.

Hibernian refused to release one of its players, John Brownlie, for the trip to Brazil. A second Hibernian star, Pat Stanton, said he didn't want to go.

The club accused Docherty of making irregular approaches to its players about the Brazil trip.

The manager denied this.

A statement by the Hibernian club said no official approach had been received about the release of Brownlie. It added the board was satisfied the manager, Eddie Turnbull, had sound reasons for not letting Brownlie go to Brazil, even if he is needed.

The quarrel between Docherty and Hibernian is the bitterest in Scottish soccer for years. It was reported on Scottish sports pages Tuesday under such headlines as "Soccer War" and "Brazil Battle."

Ashley Ends NHL Career

MONTREAL (CP) — Veteran referee John Ashley has retired from the National Hockey League officiating staff, referee-in-chief Scotty Morrison announced Tuesday.

Ashley, 42, was a veteran of 13 NHL seasons — 12 as referee.

In 1971 Ashley had the distinction of working the seventh game in each of the three Stanley Cup playoff series that required that number of games.

Including his 17 games as a linesman in 1959-60, Ashley worked a total of 680 regular season and Stanley Cup playoff games.

Dodgers, Mets, Tigers Pad Leads Blue Fails To Earn First Victory

Three of major league baseball's division leaders gained on Tuesday while the fourth maintained a healthy margin.

The Dodgers got great pitching from Al Downing and blanked the Cubs, 5-0, while the surging Reds were brought up short by New York Mets, 3-2.

Victory for the Mets boosted the Eastern Division leaders four games ahead of Pittsburgh Pirates, who were rained out of scheduled action in San Diego.

In the American League East, a split with California Angels was enough to push Detroit Tigers into a four-game margin. Both the champion Baltimore Orioles and Cleveland's slipping Indians again went under.

Downing pitched a five-hitter to get his 100th major league victory and third winning decision of the season.

He was staked to a 3-0 lead in the first inning after getting out of a jam in the Cub's first turn at bat, then took control to register his second shutout of the season.

Jim McAndrew and Tug McGraw stopped everyone except Johnny Bench in the Mets' victory. Bench accounted for both Cincinnati runs with his 14th homer of the season.

It came in the fourth inning, but the Mets got single runs in their half of the fourth, on a home run by John Milner and the sixth, on a double by Cleon Jones. Then they won it in the seventh when Jim Beauchamp, batting for McAndrew, singled and came around when Tom Agee singled after Bud Harrelson had drawn a base on balls.

Houston Astros moved into a second-place tie with the Reds by slipping past Philadelphia Phillies, 4-3. It was the ninth successive setback for the early season's surprise leaders.

Tigers outlasted the Angels, 8-6, in the first game, which produced a three-run homer by Ed Brinkman and a two-run homer by Aurelio Rodriguez in the early surge which brought Detroit an 8-2 lead.

The Orioles went down to their fifth straight defeat when Steve Brye hit a 15th-inning single which gave Minnesota Twins a 5-4 decision. Orioles appeared to have things under control but the Twins forced overtime by scoring three times in their last turn at bat.

BLUE FAILS

Oakland gave Vida Blue his third start of the season, but last season's Cy Young Award winner again failed to last or pick up a victory. He had allowed seven hits and was a 1-2 trailer when he left in the seventh inning.

Darold Knowles and Rollie Fingers came out of the bullpen to head off a threatened rally and Fingers, now 5-1, became the winning pitcher when the Athletics broke through for two runs in the eighth inning and four more in the ninth.

Victoria To Host Bowling Finals

VANCOUVER — Victoria has been chosen as the site for the 1974 Western Canada and Canadian fivepin bowling championships.

Lou Clifford, president of the B.C. Fivepin Association, confirmed that Gibson's Bowladrome has been selected as the site for the event. The 1973 tournaments will be held in Winnipeg.

Clifford added that July meetings of the Canadian Bowling Congress may change the format of the championships, perhaps making it all one.

City Couple Loses Mare

Jean and Bill Woods of Victoria were among thoroughbred owners who lost stock Sunday night when a fire at Vancouver's Exhibition Park destroyed two stables and at least 25 horses.

They have received confirmation that one of the fire victims was Bumpty Bump, a five-year-old mare who had been shipped back to Exhibition Park on Friday. She was shoed Saturday and trainer Bob Kean expected to enter her within a few days. Bumpty Bump started two races earlier in the season, bled in the second and was brought back to Victoria.

The Woods own two other thoroughbreds — the four-year-old Table Top, who is expected to race later this month, and Blue Cheri, in foal to First Table.

Mabee had replaced starter Pete Jolly, who struck out nine batters before being lifted with one out in the seventh inning. Jolly also had two hits in two trips to the plate and drove in one run.

Canada Blanked In Uber Cup

TOKYO (CP-AP) — Indonesia shut out Canada, 7-0, Tuesday in the second round of the 1972 Uber Cup world women's badminton championship.

Indonesia plays New Zealand in the semi-finals Thursday with Japan and Denmark meeting in the other semi-final. The final is on Sunday.

The Indonesians outplayed the Canadians — who reached the quarter-finals by beating the United States, 6-1 — with an exhausting combination of passing shots and drop shots.

Utami Dwi, Asian singles champion, overwhelmed Canadian champion Nancy McKinley of Toronto, 11-2, 11-0, but former Victorian Judy Rollick put up a better showing in her singles match, going down, 11-8, 11-8, to Itan.

Closest matches were the first two of four doubles contests.

Regina Masli and Itan beat Marjorie Shedd and Barbara Welch, the Canadian doubles champions from Toronto, 15-5, 12-15, 15-2, and Rento Kustijah and Poppy Tumengkol beat Mrs. Rollick and Mimi Nilsson of Vancouver, 15-8, 14-17, 18-13.

Several Golf Veterans To Miss U.S. Open

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ken Venturi, 1964 U.S. Open champion and a member of the 1965 Ryder Cup team, soared to a 36-hole total of 151 Tuesday and failed to qualify for the 1972 U.S. Open golf tournament.

Venturi was well back in the field of 54 golfers who vied for six berths in sectional qualifying over the 6926-yard par-72 Atlanta Athletic Club course. He shot a 77 on the first round and managed only a 74 on the second.

—Tim Collins, a virtual unknown from Greenville, S.C., fired a two-under-par 142, leading Atlanta qualifers for the U.S. Open at Pebble Beach, Calif., June 15-18.

Touring pro Larry Ziegler, winner of the 1969 Michigan Classic, and Bill Hall carded five-under-par 139s, pacing five qualifiers at the Westwood Country Club in St. Louis. Bert Weaver was third with 142.

The biggest casualty at St. Louis was Bob Goalby, tour regular and 1968 Masters champion, who shot a 157.

After a fine morning round of 69, Snead ballooned to a 78 in the afternoon. His 147 total was 12 strokes behind Doug Sanders, the top qualifier.

Snead, winner of 84 PGA-cosponsored tournaments, claimed his afternoon round was "about the worst I've ever played in my life."

The temperature was in the high 80s, but Snead refused to use that as an excuse.

So for Snead, the U.S. Open jinx continues. An Open also-ran 33 times, he competed in 25 consecutive Opens starting in 1937. His closest shot at a title came in 1939 at Philadelphia, when with victory in his grasp he went one over on the 17th and then three over on the final hole.

Last year, due to a mixup in the mail involving Snead's application, he did not even compete in the qualifying rounds.

Among the prominent names not to make the grade, along with Snead, were Phil Rodgers, Herb Hooper, Lionel Hebert and Bruce Fleisher. The veteran Hebert suffered from heat exhaustion late in the day.

Canadien Farmhands Nabbed First in Expansion Draft

MONTREAL — Minor-league defencemen owned by Montreal Canadiens were the first choices Tuesday when New York Islanders and Atlanta Flames selected their teams in the third National Hockey League expansion draft.

The two newcomers, which brings league strength to 16 teams, were each allowed to draft 19 skaters and two goalkeepers from lists prepared by the other 14 clubs, who were allowed to protect two goalkeepers and 15 other players.

SURPRISE CHOICE

Islanders caused the first of several surprises when they selected Bart Crashley as their first choice following selection of goalkeepers. Then the Flames made it surprise No. 2 when they selected Kerry Ketter.

Crashley, a 26-year-old (on June 15) veteran of six professional seasons, and Ketter, a 25-year-old who has played four years for pay, were both with Halifax Voyageurs, playoff champions of the American league, this past season.

Crashley, who came to Canadiens in the same deal which brought them Pete Mahovlich, played one season in the NHL with Detroit Red Wings. Ketter, born in Prince George and a graduate of the junior Edmonton Oil Kings, had two seasons with Fort Worth in the Central League and one with Baltimore in the AHL before going to Halifax.

He was obtained from the Wings in a trade for Leon Rochefort.

WESTFALL CLAIMED

The Flames followed by taking Norm Gratton, 21-year-old rightwinger, from New York Rangers, and it wasn't until the third round that Ed Westfall, the outstanding Boston forward, was taken. He went to the Islanders.

The Bruins also lost Dan Bouchard, well-regarded rookie goalkeeper, and Garry Peters, voted the most valuable player in the American League last season. But the Stanley Cup champions were able to save veteran John McKenzie and Nick Beverly, 25-year-old defenceman.

Montreal Canadiens lost goalkeeper Phil Myre in addition to Crashley and Ketter but saved centre Chuck Lefley and defencemen Bob Murdoch and Dale Hoganson, who were also on their unprotected list.

MYRE FIRST

Atlanta had first choice in the goalkeepers' draft, which was separate to the main draft, and took Myre. After the Islanders had selected Gerry Desjardins of Chicago Black Hawks, the new clubs went for youth, the Flames grabbing Bouchard and the Islanders picking off Bill Smith from Los Angeles Kings.

Drafting of goalkeepers enabled established clubs to fill by reclaiming some proven talent. Canadiens, who didn't have to lose a goalkeeper, put Lefley back on their protected list when Myre was taken. The Bruins reclaimed McKenzie and the Hawks protected Dan Maloney when they lost goalkeepers.

In addition to the 21 players they procured in the expansion draft, the clubs padded their rosters with seven players obtained either through purchase or in the inter-league draft.

Islanders added four players from minor-league clubs in the inter-league draft — Don Blackburn of Providence, Connie Forey of Hershey and Dennis Kassian of Cincinnati from the American league and Neil Anderson of Salt Lake City from the Western league — and purchased forward Gordon Laboissiere from Minnesota North Stars.

NHL Offers Later Dates For Canada-Russia Series

MONTREAL (CP) — The National Hockey League has made "the strongest possible representations" to the Russians through Hockey Canada to move back the September dates for a visit by a Soviet Union team, the league president said Tuesday.

Clarence Campbell told a news conference during the NHL's annual meetings that the league sees eye-to-eye on arrangements made by Hockey Canada, but the timetable remains at issue.

He said the dates of Sept. 22-24-26-27 for the Canadian trip to Russia should remain, but proposed that the Russian visit be postponed from early September until Nov. 7-9-13-17 because that period is the least busy in the NHL schedule.

Campbell said that while some NHL clubs may have balked at their players participating in the series, meetings here had not shown any outright opposition to members of U.S. teams playing.

He said further meetings were scheduled between Hockey Canada representatives and the NHL to clarify other points of the Russia-Canada series, but he did not elaborate.

Campbell said defenceman Bobby Orr or Boston likely will participate in the series, providing the all-star player recovers from a knee operation.

Orr underwent surgery Tuesday and a Bruin spokesman said that the defenceman should be back on skates for training in September.

The surgery on the left knee, performed at Massachussets General Hospital, was an "overall cleanup operation" and Dr. Carter Rowe, who performed the surgery, said he foresaw no problems.

Recovery is expected to take from six to eight weeks and Orr was advised to wear a knee brace when he resumes skating.

Campbell said the NHL governors will decide on two more franchises for the 1974-75 season. There are 10 candidates for the two new entries.

"Hopefully, we'll have a decision by Thursday . . .," he said. "At any rate we are going to have another meeting of the governors in August."

Meanwhile, the players' association reportedly has told club owners it wants double the pension benefits it has been receiving, and that it also wants increased playoff benefits that would provide a first-place finisher with $25,000 for the Stanley Cup victory.

The players also are asking that the playoff benefits be retroactive until last season, one in which the Stanley Cup champion Boston Bruins received $17,500. The Bruins drew $15,000 a man for the victory.

Edmonton Signs NHL Foursome

Colonist News Services

World Hockey Association clubs aren't allowing the National Hockey League to corner all the hockey news during its annual meeting.

Tuesday's big WHA news came from Edmonton, which announced through manager Bill Hunter the signing of seven players, four of them with NHL clubs this past season.

Centre Eddie Joyal and defencemen Bob Wall, Al Hamilton and Doug Barrie have been plucked off NHL clubs, Roger Cote and Brian Carlin are from Cleveland and Springfield of the American League and Ross Perkins from Fort Worth of the Central League.

Joyal was with Los Angeles Kings and Philadelphia Flyers last season. Wall ended the season with Detroit Red Wings, Hamilton was with Buffalo Sabres and Barrie, a former Sabre, was with the Kings.

Perkins, a 25-year-old centre, Hamilton, Barrie and Joyal all played junior hockey with the Edmonton Oil Kings.

New England Whalers and Philadelphia Blazers also announced the signing of NHL players on Tuesday.

The Whalers reported they have signed forward Tom Webster of California Golden Seals. He scored 30 goals and made 37 assists for Detroit Red Wings in the 1970-71 season but missed last season because of back surgery.

Centre Andre Lacroix, who started his NHL career with Philadelphia Flyers and was traded to Chicago Black Hawks last season, was announced as signed to multi-year contract by the Blazers.

It was also reported Tuesday that Murray Williamson, former U.S. Olympic hockey coach, is expected to become general-manager of the Blazers.

COURT BATTLE

In St. Paul, the Minnesota Fighting Saints said they were prepared to go to court over the signing of players.

The word came from general-manager Glen Sonmor after a report that Vancouver Canucks of the NHL were planning to file a federal court suit against the Saints for signing forward Wayne Connelly.

If you have just a couple of hours to spare and want to get outdoors, consider a hike along the new Prospector's Trail recently built in Goldstream Park by the Outdoors Club of Victoria.

We often enjoy strolling along the several Goldstream Park trails and a week or so ago we took to the new trail, which is rich in history with the remains of old mines along it, plus a variety of flora to study.

When we hiked the trail, the dogwood was out and the delicate ladyslippers could be noted if you watched very carefully.

We started the trail at the point where the Mount Finlayson Trail of the South Vancouver Island Rangers starts. That is just over the bridge at the Goldstream picnic site and 150 feet or so further along.

A few hundred yards along the trail there is a junction. Left takes you on to the SVIR Mount Finlayson trail, straight ahead and you're on the new Prospector's Trail above that part of the Goldstream which flows along the highway. However, you can't see the stream from the trail.

The trail winds through forest and arbutus meadows, and a loop leads to a lookout point which provides a panoramic view of the Malahat to Langford Lake and Goldstream Inn areas. Another loop leads to old mine diggings, then the trail winds down towards the highway.

Finally it reaches the highway at the Goldstream bridge and you can cross under the bridge to get to the trails parking area on the other side of the road. But, we decided to follow the fairly new Fishermen's Trail, downstream along the Goldstream, back to the Goldstream picnic area where we had left our vehicle.

* * *

Of course, you could hike the Prospector's Trail by starting at the highway bridge. If you have only a short time, try the Fisherman's Trail, which runs from the highway bridge down to the other bridge at the picnic grounds. You can go downstream further along the picnic grounds, although it might be a little difficult at times to continue on to the Fish and Game club grounds on Goldstream Flats.

Perhaps that downstream trail will be the next project of the Outdoors Club, for that could make the ideal loop to connect with the Niagara Mine Trail.

You could, with just a little rough hiking at some river spots, start hiking at the trail parking area, just beyond the Goldstream bridge at the highway, and make the entire loop.

From the trail parking area, you head up the trail a few feet until there is a junction . . . left for the Arbutus Trail for three-quarters of an hour hiking to the campgrounds, right for the Mine Trail to Niagara Canyon and Falls, just in front of the Fish and Game Clubhouse entrance at the highway. That is also about a three-quarter hour hike.

Then you could cross the road and go down to the Goldstream Flats and hike upstream from the Flats to the picnic grounds. It is this first part along the river that could be a little difficult, although a trail is gradually getting made by continual tramping. From the picnic ground continue along the Fisherman's Trail to the highway bridge and back to the parking lot. Or if you feel ambitious, take the new Prospector's Trail for a long loop.

Steve McAdam of Cowichan Valley Gun Club was the big winner at the Vancouver Island Shooting League competitions in Cowichan Sunday.

He won the high overall and the B Class burton with 143x150 and took the doubles with 47x50.

Bert Thomas of Victoria Fish and Game Club took the high 16 yards event with 50 straight, and won the A Class and high overall runner-up award in a shoot-off with Ernie Johnson of Nanaimo and Mike Kilsaar of South Vancouver Island Rangers. They had all shot 137x150.

Winner of C class was R. Lennox of Campbell River with 131x150; D Class, Bob Hughes of Victoria Gun Club, 130x150. High handicap winner was D. Royan of Port Alberni with 48x50.

Nanaimo won the A team event and Victoria Gun Club was the winner of the C team event.

Alderman Has Open Mind Over Zoning

There is no reason hotels should be confined to one specific area of a city, Victoria Ald. Mike Young said Tuesday.

Young said in an interview, however, that he would have to study a rezoning application for a proposed 80-room hotel at Hillside and Doncaster before he could comment on it.

City hall offilials said the building would cost about $1.5 million. The building, which would be located near Hillside shopping plaza, would be four storeys high.

Young, who is planning committee chairman said he feels diversidied commercial activity injects vitality into an area. He said, however, that hotels would have to integrate with its surroundings.

"I'm quite open-minded about it. I don't have a rigid viewpoint that hotels must be lorated in the downtown area," Young said.

"What's a good idea economically and what's a good idea from the point of view of the city are two different things."

The land is currently zoned for single-family dwelling and a city official said it would probably have to be changed to some form of commercial zoning, possibly transient accommodation.

A letter to council from Greenbank Designs Ltd., on behalf of developer John Melnyk, says the proposed hotel will have its own cocktail bar, dining room, banquet room, coffee shop and beverage room.

Plans call for part masonry and part frame construction. Landscaping features and a concrete wall would prevent lights from hotel customers' cars interfering with the privacy of residents across the street, the letter said.

The application will be discussed by Victoria council's B committee Tuesday.

Waffle Stay In Riding Vote

TORONTO (CP) — New Democratic Party members from 15 Metropolitan Toronto ridings voted Sunday against a recommendation of the party's provincial executive to expel the Waffle wing.

However, provincial party president Gordon Vichert of Hamilton said that while the vote is an expression of opinion that must be taken seriously, he doesn't believe it accurately reflects the province-wide feeling.

Wage Talks Resume

Talks between Victoria Press Ltd. and its five unions, which were interrupted Monday following a deadlock with the smallest union — the mailers — are to resume at 10:30 a.m. today.

All of the unions, representing 330 employees of the morning Colonist and afternoon Times previously recorded votes in favor of strike action if the present contract dispute isn't resolved.

The talks recessed Monday over issues affecting the mailers in particular. Progress had been made with the four other unions in the Victoria Newspaper Council of Unions.

It was the first meeting in several weeks without government mediator Clark Gilmour. Gilmour's schedule did not permit him to be in Victoria this week. His term has been extended once again, this time to June 14.

In addition to the mailers, the unions include the Newspaper Guild, the typographical workers, pressmen and stereotypers.

Brentwood College won the senior event at Vancouver by trimming St. George's, 8-1, in the final. The defending champions eliminated Shawnigan Lake, 7-2, and St. Michael's University School of Victoria, 5-4, in earlier matches. Members of the winning team were Jock Osler, Mark Timmis, Scott Reed, David Trottier, Vincent Kwan and Charles Procter.

In the junior tourney at Shawnigan Lake, Glenlyon of Victoria finished on top with 17 points, three more than Athlone of Vancouver. Cliffside had 10 points, St. Michael's seven and Vernon Prep two in the one-day event.

Matt Frewer, Paul Monaghan, Peter Butterfield and Forrest Graham were members of the Glenyon team.

At stake in the four primaries was a rich harvest of 415 delegates — including 271 in California, 109 in New Jersey, 18 in New Mexico and 17 in South Dakota.

"This is the first time in American history that any candidate will have won four primaries in one day," a confident McGovern told wealthy contributors as he awaited the California returns.

Top Humphrey aides said late on election day that the percentage of the former vice-president's defeat would determine whether he would give up his 12-year quest for the presidency. They said if Humphrey lost by as much as 20 percentage points — as predicted by the field California poll — he would withdraw and free his delgates.

Angelo Geocaris, the Illinois campaign chairman for Senator Edmund Muskie, also said the Maine Democrat might withdraw completely in the face of a strong California showing by McGovern.

Wallace, paralysed from the waste down by the bullet of a would-be assassin, was an obsentee write-in candidate who threatened to take California votes from both McGovern and Humphrey and delay ballot counting even without the San Francisco federal court order.

The polls in California were scheduled to close at 8 p.m. but the court order was issued after the federal judge heard arguments that people in San Francisco were waiting as long as two hours to get into the voting booths.

The delay was brought about by the consolidation of precincts in San Francisco and the length of the ballot with scores of state, county and local candidates and various propositions.

Also on the California ballot were former senator Eugene MacCarthy, who recently endorsed McGovern; Los Angeles Mayor Sam Yorty, who endorsed Humphrey on election eve; Rep. Shirley Chisholm; and three primary dropouts — New York Mayor John Lindsay, and senators Henry Jackson and Muskie.

President Nixon was assured of sewing up enough delegates to be renominated for a second term. The president entered Tuesday's primaries with 633 delegates and was regarded as a shoo-in to win California's 96. The Republican nomination requires 674 delegates.

Rep. John Ashbrook of Ohio was Nixon's only opponent in California.

Cause of Fire Determined

VANCOUVER (CP) — A fire that killed at least 25 horses in stables at Exhibition Park racetrack Sunday night started when a smouldering chesterfield was knocked into a feed shed by a passing truck, a spokesman for the B.C. fire marshal's office said Tuesday.

"We have determined that there was a fire about 8:30 p.m. Sunday in one of the tack rooms where the grooms live," he said.

"One of the grooms fell asleep and a smouldering cigarette started a fire in the chesterfield."

The spokesman said three grooms dragged the burning piece of furniture out of the building and could not reach a hook-up to use a hose on the fire.

Merv Peters of the B.C. Jockey Club, which operates the track, said an early estimate of the value of race horses lost in the blaze is $75,000.

Peters and other racing committee members are to meet this week to discuss fire protection measures in the wake of a call by city fire chief Armand Konig for a sprinkler system in the stables.

Island Boys Net Champs

Brentwood College won the senior event at Vancouver by trimming St. George's, 8-1, in the final. The defending champions eliminated Shawnigan Lake, 7-2, and St. Michael's University School of Victoria, 5-4, in earlier matches. Members of the winning team were Jock Osler, Mark Timmis, Scott Reed, David Trottier, Vincent Kwan and Charles Procter.

In the junior tourney at Shawnigan Lake, Glenlyon of Victoria finished on top with 17 points, three more than Athlone of Vancouver. Cliffside had 10 points, St. Michael's seven and Vernon Prep two in the one-day event.

Matt Frewer, Paul Monaghan, Peter Butterfield and Forrest Graham were members of the Glenyon team.

Boxla Vet Disciplined

VANCOUVER (CP) — Veteran forward Don Boyd of Vancouver Burrards has been suspended for 10 games, fined $75, and ordered to post a $200 performance bond for an incident involving a referee in a Western Lacrosse Association game May 25.

English said that even though Boyd had not actually struck the referee, a factor in his ruling was Boyd's involvement in a similar incident four years ago for which he was suspended.

Hoop Giant Joins Lions

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia Lions of the Canadian Football League have announced that Bob Hall, a six-foot, eleven-inch basketball star from the University of Houston, Texas, will be given a tryout.

Hall, 23, will be among about 80 players attending the Lions' training camp when it opens in Penticton June 18.

Hall did not play varsity football in the U.S. and because of this is not an import under CFL rules.

Great Lakes Ramming

Ore Carrier May Spew Bunker Oil

PORT HURON, Mich. (UPI) — U.S. Coast Guard officials expressed fear Tuesday that the ore carrier Sidney E. Smith Jr., on its side after being rammed in the St. Clair River, might break apart and spew 49,000 gallons of heavy oil into the narrow channel.

The ship has been shifting since it sank to the bottom in 35 feet of water after being rammed in pre-dawn darkness Monday by the freighter Parker Evans just south of the entrance to lower Lake Huron. Officials feared it might slide to a depth of about 60 feet and break apart.

Some 49,000 gallons of bunker C — a heavy fuel oil — remained in the ship's tanks as workmen Tuesday sealed two of four leaking fuel tanks before being ordered away from the vessel at mid-afternoon.

The one lane which had been used alternately for upbound and downbound shipping was closed again when the danger of the Smith's breakup increased.

Thousands of curiosity-seekers flocked to both the U.S. and Canadian shores to view the Coast Guard operation designed to keep any leaking oil from spreading downriver. A boom was constructed around the vessel to hold in leaking oil.

A one-man formal investigation into the cause of the collision was scheduled in Detroit Thursday.

Wiretapping Brief

Police Chiefs Balk at Policy

OTTAWA (CP) — Judges should not have authority to permit wiretapping, the Canadian Association of Chiefs of Police told the Commons justice committee Tuesday.

In a brief, which summarized CACP comments on proposed legislation restricting wiretapping, the chiefs said authority to install eavesdropping equipment should be vested with provincial attorneys-general or their designated representatives.

The bill would place authority for wiretapping in the hands of superior court judges. It would require police to satisfy the judges that other investigative methods have failed, or urgency is involved, before permission for wiretapping could be granted.

Chief J. F. Gregory of Victoria, chairman of the CACP, said that if this responsibility is given to judges they will no longer be impartial since they will become involved with law enforcement.

There are also many areas where superior court judges might not be available when needed by the police and, if there were abuses by elected officials, they could be called to account, he said.

MPs on the committee indicated in their responxe to this suggestion that they would rather put their trust in judges than in politicians.

Reporters Lazy Lot –Lecturers

MONTREAL (CP) — Reporters in the parliamentary press gallery in Ottawa are lazy when it comes to digging out information, say two University of Guelph political scientists.

Some reporters tend to rely on their press gallery colleagues for ideas, rather than their own investigations, Louis Rivietz and John Tordiff told a Learned Societies of Canada panel Monday.

Conversations among journalists and the exchange of carbon copies are often the sources of national news, they said.

There's a full ballot box at the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria as a novel experiment in art shows draws to a close but if friends of the exhibitors think the show worth visiting, established artists and gallery officials are doubtful.

For years the gallery has held an annual jury show in which artists from Vancouver Island and the Gulf Islands submitted works which were screened by one or more jurors and the best works hung for public exhibition.

The jurors picked the works they considered the best in the show and then the exhibition was opened to the public.

Two years ago disgruntled artists whose work was rejected decided to hold their own show and protested to the gallery about the judging.

He called the show, which runs to Sunday, an "omnium gatherum," meaning any work submitted is exhibited. At first the gallery officials feared there would be a massive collection of work as 600 entry forms were picked up by prospective exhibitors but in the end only 170 works were sent in.

Of these, only two are by established artists and it is understood they exhibited out of kindness to the gallery.

More than one local artist has described the show as a "cultural disaster" because of the poor quality and amateurism of the work.

The show has been a disappointment not only because it produced fewer entries and poorer quality, but also because the nature of the show has resulted in a smaller attendance than usual according to Graham's estimates.

On Tuesday afternoon the main exhibition gallery was deserted and the receptionist reported that not a single painting had been sold.

The basic idea behind this show is that visitors to the exhibition are allowed to cast a ballot for the work they consider the best. The box provided for votes was full to

Awe Appeal Exhausts Indian Tourists

Victoria Wows Yukon Visitors

For 16 little Indians it's a whole new world they're seeing, and their five senses are so busy taking everything in they fall asleep exhausted each night.

For the 16 boys, all aged 10 to 12, conversation is brief and to the point.

They see a highrise. "How big!"

"What did you like best?" "Ferry," said James. And all that grass!

Tuesday they had a picnic supper on the beach, including watermelon.

"I've got to take the shells out of this," said one.

That was a long speech. Most others ran to two or three words.

Tuesday night they were taken to Memorial Arena to see a lacrosse game. It was the biggest building they'd ever been in, but their eyes soon stopped spinning around to settle on the floor.

"Is that ice?"

"Play hockey here?"

Explanations were made, and they settled down to watch the game.

Accompanying the boys is Gilles Ashby, child care worker with the federal department of Indian affairs, who started working on this project almost a year ago.

He received the department's approval, then sought out help along the way.

He wrote to Sister Marjorie Fletcher, teaching now at St. Patrick's school in Victoria but who taught last year at Lower Post Student Residence in the Yukon, where her class included five of these boys, the rest she knew, too.

Sister Marjorie got in touch with Victoria Chinatown Lions, who undertook to look after the Victoria phase of the tour, and it developed that other Lions Clubs through the province have been doing the same in their cities.

The boys and Ashby reached Victoria Monday night, and stayed overnight at Queenswood House of Study, 2494 Arbutus.

There they thrilled to another new experience — a swimming pool. The boys splashed themselves into a state of happy exhaustion.

Tuesday brought a boat tour of the Inner Harbor, a trip to Fort Rodd Hill, a visit to the legislative buildings, the beach picnic and the lacrosse game.

Today Lions zone chairman Philip Chan will accompany them on a chartered-bus tour to the Alberni Valley where they will meet Indian artist-writer George Clutesi and tour a mill.

Bill 33 Battle Finds Support With Industry

By DON COLLINS
Colonist Labor Reporter

A spokesman for industry joined organized labor's call for an end to the B.C. government's Bill 33 Tuesday and proposed a new formula to replace the free collective bargaining process.

At the same time, Roy Whittle, vice-president of B.C. Forest Products, said compulsion won't work and that in the end, the right to strike must be maintained.

In a luncheon speech to Victoria Kiwanis Club, Whittle also suggested that some of B.C.'s unions are controlled or influenced by a "left wing" element.

Whittle
. . . frustrated

All Shades

Afterward, he said he was referring to "left wingers of all shades."

It was also after the meeting that he said he felt the controversial Bill 33, with its compulsory features, should be scrapped.

The bill, which provides for compulsory arbitration, back to work orders and fines for individuals and organizations, has been under constant attack from labor.

"Whether we like it or not, unions are not about to accept compulsory arbitration," Whittle said.

He added that he didn't think society as a whole had reached the stage where it will put up with compulsion — beyond such things as taxes.

Peace

This formula, based on his many years in the business, in addition to his years as a high-ranking IWA officer before that, is one he thinks might lead to some form of labor peace:

- The two sides would negotiate in the normal manner for a limited time.
- If this didn't work, a mediator would enter the picture.
- From there the matter, if still unresolved, would go to a single arbitrator who would have financial analysts, labor experts and other professional help at his disposal. They would be highly-qualified, impartial, acceptable to both sides and would be supplied by the labor department.

The costs for the experts would be borne by the parties and not the public.

- When the arbitrator came down with a finding it would go to the membership for a vote and if the unionists voted to strike they would be allowed to do so — after a short cooling off period.

Of the present system of bargaining, he said:

"What we have hasn't worked and won't work."

Whittle appeared at the meeting chiefly to outline the state of negotiations between Forest Industrial Relations and the IWA in the coast region.

The wildcat strike of fallers, coming during negotiations, had caused a special problem and the situation, he forecast, was "going to be pretty dramatic in days or weeks."

He said the fallers wanted a formula boiled down to something that would, if accepted, give them $30 to $50 more a day on top of the present average of $93 a day.

"We (his own company) are not prepared to negotiate ourselves into the kind of high-price formula the fallers want," he said.

Whittle said the present form of bargaining was made especially difficult because the unions in Canada refuse to give any consideration to the economic circumstances of industry.

Best Paid

The IWA members in the coast region, with a $3.72 an hour rate, are the best paid of their kind in the world, he said. Their demands, including $1 an hour increase in wages, would raise the cost of each member by $3.20 an hour over one year, or an overall $150 million according to his figures.

The industry offered 71½ cents an hour over three years Monday and it was rejected.

Whittle said it was the "largest opening offer" the industry had ever made. He also said the wage rate had increased 86 per cent since 1962, while company profits were down by 50 per cent last year.

Unions in the U.S. were beginning to show some financial responsibility be decreasing their demands, but such a move wasn't catching on in Canada, according to Whittle.

On the question of present bargaining procedures, he said:

"We're all frustrated, or at least concerned, by the breakdown in the free bargaining process."

He said there were two reasons for this — demands of younger workers for some of the affluence they see about them, and an "attack by an agressive left wing, who through political action hope to change control of the group and thus change the system."

Control

He said it was control and a change in the system the unions wanted when their common front movement defied the law recently in Quebec, and he warned:

He thinks, however, that the propaganda fed the unionists by such elements isn't really being consumed without question.

Communists

"I don't believe the work force believes the union any more than it believes us," he said of the companies.

During the interview, Whittle said old-line Communists may be playing a part in the fallers' strike now, but he doesn't think they were involved in the beginning. He believes the strike came about simply to get a better deal on an industry-wide basis for the fallers.

He was asked if he thought the growing labor problems in B.C. indicated there would be a serious confrontation this summer.

"I'm an optimist and I would have to say no," he said.

Open Art Exhibit Success Doubtful

By BILL THOMAS
Colonist Reporter

There's a full ballot box at the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria as a novel experiment in art shows draws to a close but if friends of the exhibitors think the show worth visiting, established artists and gallery officials are doubtful.

For years the gallery has held an annual jury show in which artists from Vancouver Island and the Gulf Islands submitted works which were screened by one or more jurors and the best works hung for public exhibition.

The jurors picked the works they considered the best in the show and then the exhibition was opened to the public.

The basic idea behind this show is that visitors to the exhibition are allowed to cast a ballot for the work they consider the best. The box provided for votes was full to overflowing Tuesday and Graham was wondering if he could find another box.

The work may not be of great quality but it seems to attract a certain amount of loyalty from friends and family.

The moment of truth comes at 4:30 p.m. Sunday when ballots will have been counted and winners named for a total of $90 in prizes.

Voters have until 9:30 p.m. Thursday to see the show and mark their ballots.

An established painter has commented that "this is a paint by blunders game. Who would want to show under these conditions?"

The gallery board may be wondering the same thing. The question of jury shows will be reviewed and assessed later.

Graham's conclusions? "I feel this is not the ideal way to mount an exhibition to show what is best in art on Vancouver Island and the Gulf Islands. I must admit that art by consensus has not been a success is this case."

Way Looks Clear for Reid Centre

Obstacles to approval of the latest Reid Centre proposal at Thursday's Victoria council meeting are unlikely, Ald. Mike Young said Tuesday.

Young, chairman of council's planning committee, said in an interview that plans and a model of the latest Reid proposal will be unveiled at the council meeting.

Young said representatives of Vancouver developer J. A. Reid met with members of council at a closed committee of the whole meeting Tuesday for last-minute discussions before the scheme is publicly unveiled.

The alderman said relations between the city and Reid representatives are good. Both sides are heading in the direction of completion of a land use contract and contract details were discussed at the meeting.

The model of the latest proposal consists of two curved towers forming part of a semi-circle. One of the towers is higher than the other and an open space faces Wharf Street.

Young said city solicitor Terry O'Grady will be instructed to prepare a land-use contract if council approves the latest proposal. Next step for the proposal would be a public hearing.

Reid's previous proposal for the Wharf Street site on the Inner Harbor waterfront was similar to the current one. In the previous proposal, the two towers were to be eight and 13 storeys high.

The Advisory Planning Commission indicated to Reid's representatives that it would approve the project in principle subject to more detailed information.

Blueprints, sketches and a model of the latest Reid proposal were unveiled recently at a commission meeting, closed to the press.

The proposed Reid Centre has been the topic of much controversy during the past two years. Various proposals have been submitted by Reid and have been returned by the city for modifications.

Service Club Circuit

Unionists Want Invitations Too

By DON COLLINS
Colonist Labor Reporter

Are service clubs acting as an extension to the B.C. Employers' Association in an effort to give wide publicity to management's side of the story in the province's 1972 crop of labor disputes?

With key management figures and negotiators hitting the "luncheon meeting" circuit as speakers in recent weeks, some union officials claim there is a concerted effort to present one side of the picture.

In Victoria Tuesday, where a forest industry executive spoke to the Victoria Kiwanis Club, the club president said there had been no attempt to line up union speakers, but that he would welcome such a speaker. The president, Archie Hall, said speakers are sometimes arranged for by the club itself and often as a result of names suggested to them from other sources.

Hall made his comments in an interview before a meeting that heard an address on current coast industry negotiations by R. J. Whittle of Vancouver, vice-president of B.C. Forest Products.

He said the service club had not undertaken to set up a debate format that would have someone from each side but was chiefly interested in hearing from persons with knowledge of current topics.

He said, however, that his own club would be interested in hearing the views of "someone representing the employees."

The interview led to a sort of informal invitation to Weldon Jubenville, president of the Duncan local of the IWA, to appear sometime as a speaker.

This was apparently because the topic Tuesday was coast industry negotiations which involves Jubenville, among others.

"We'd be glad to have Mr. Jubenville if he is available," said Hall.

On numerous occasions recently C. J. (Chuck) Connaghan, president of the Construction Labor Relations Association, which locked 18 unions out, has told the story of the contractors at various service club meetings throughout B.C.

Other officials of the forest industry have also spoken to service clubs on labor difficulties.

Pollution Laws 'Add to Trouble'

VANCOUVER (CP) — New pollution laws probably will add to garbage disposal problems instead of easing them, says Dr. R. H. Clark of Queen's University, Kingston, Ont.

Dr. Clark says overdue laws to regulate municipal waste disposal may just perpetuate problems by forcing municipalities to make long-term commitments for disposal systems instead of considering the possibilities of recycling and resource conservation.

He discussed the problems involved in recycling in a speech Tuesday at the 25th anniversary meeting of the Consumers' Association of Canada.

Dr. Clark said an experimental plan was worked out for Kingston to use separation and recycling for its waste disposal. He said the Ontario government has come to no decision about helping to support the experiment, which was intended as a model, to look at the feasibility of such systems for any community.

"Indications are that the unit is regarded by the ministry as merely a disposal system for Kingston," he said.

"It is clear ... that the ministry of the environment has misunderstood the Kingston proposal and views the problems of solid waste not as an opportunity for Canadian originality and foresight, but as a problem which each municipality must figure out for itself.

"Environmental issues refuse to be compartmentalized or government departmentalized. The morass of problems and the apathy of those in responsible positions may cause us to rely upon burial and burning for another 40 years.

Dr. Clark urged the CAC to work on the problem in several ways.

"Emphasize product quality to include a demand for longer life.

"De-emphasize packing appeal to reduce packaging wastes.

"Pursue the development of recycling schemes and depots.

"Seek and provide facts on recycling to reduce emotional response.

"Encourage home and shop repair of manufactured articles.

"Strengthen relationships between industrial associations, universities and governments to plan future action.

"The next few years are critical if Canada is to develop the systems, legislation and public responses required for the improvement of the quality of life."

CAC treasurer de Lotbiniere Panet of Ottawa said the CAC has asked the federal department of consumer and corporate affairs for a grant of $235,000, but has had no reply. In 1970 the CAC had a grant of $100,000 from the department.

CAC membership is five times larger than it was two years ago, nearly 100,000 now, and Panet said the association wishes to expand its services to the public and the membership. If the grant or part of it is not received, he told delegates, drastic cuts will be made in such services.

Convict Asks To Be Hanged

ADELAIDE, Australia (UPI) — Dennis Lawrence, 45, has appealed a second time to the South Australian government to hang him for the murder he was convicted of so that his wife will be free to remarry.

Lawrence was sentenced to death on Jan. 11, 1971, after pleading guilty to the murder of Josef Sommer.

During his trial Lawrence wrote to South Australian Premier Don Dunstan asking that the sentence be carried out.

He said he wanted to be hanged so that his wife would be free to remarry and his sons able to live their lives without him "lurking in the background."

Student's Drink Laced

Real Firewater

JENISON, Mich. (UPI) — Superintendent of schools David McKenzie said Tuesday three teachers who spiked a 14-year-old student actor's drink during a play to get a better effect did it as a "practical joke without thinking about the consequences."

The consequences resulted in a suspension for the teachers and possible firing, pending a hearing within 30 days before the Jenison school district board of education.

McKenzie said the teachers, Lon Waterman, John Fikkert and Kathryn Headley, admitted to him they had spiked the student's "firewater" with vodka during a class performance last month of Annie, Get Your Gun.

McKenzie said he saw the play and thought the unidentified student gave a "realistic" performance. After the play, another student went on stage and said, "hey, that firewater was real vodka," but the audience thought he was just kidding.

The school superintendent said he didn't think anything about it at the time, but subsequent information disclosed that the drink had actually been laced with clear liquor.

McKenzie said the teachers have not yet signed a contract for the next academic year and were not signed to instruct summer classes.

Basic Shopping Facts

Lack of Understanding Top Complaint Factor

TORONTO (CP) — You can save yourself a lot of shopper's regrets by keeping a few basic facts firmly in mind.

People in the business of selling things must make a profit. If they didn't they wouldn't be earning a living.

Signatures are binding.

Kay Hodgins says she believes many consumer complaints arise from a lack of understanding of the free-enterprise system. Mrs. Hodgins is one of five consumer consultants for the federal government. Part of her job is hearing complaints and trying to arbitrate them.

She has a few suggestions about how to shop, based on the complaints that come into her office.

She says you must realize you will get what you pay for. If you buy poor merchandise at a cut-rate price, you cannot expect the performance from it that you should get from better merchandise.

"Beware of discount houses that offer two for one or the second for one dollar. They're not really giving anything away. Nobody sells anything for nothing. You get what you pay for, by and large.

"Sometimes if you buy on credit the consumer's protection branch can go after a complaint, but if you've paid cash, you've had it."

She says credit can be useful if you can afford it.

"Credit cards are convenient and they don't cost much if you pay up every month. But if you start letting charges accumulate, then it's costing you money.

"Many times people don't realize you can shop around for the cost of money. If you must use credit or borrow money, try several firms and find out what they want in return.

"A part of credit problems is the lack of a budget. You can't spend more than you've got. Plan a budget and stick to it.

"And know how must credit is costing. There is credit legislation at the provincial level that says you have to be told what credit costs are in dollars and in per cent, but people don't read it. They don't known how much it will cost them."

She says you should not put too much faith in a salesman's verbal promise. Get it in writing.

"An unscrupulous salesman will say anything to make a sale. The one way to be sure that what the salesman tells you is reliable is to tell him to write it on the bill. Then the company has to stand behind it, and the salesman won't be quite so flip with promises.

"Remember, too, that warranties are only as reliable as the company that makes them, and they only last as long as the company does. If it folds tomorrow, a 10-year warranty is no use to you.

"Most warranties are limited in their liability. For instance, a sofa frame might not fall apart, but the warranty won't cover the wear on the upholstery.

"Don't buy anything on impulse, and that applies to anything from grocery products to appliances. If you're really budget-conscious, you'll take a list to the grocery store and stick to it unless there is a special.

"If you're going to buy appliances, talk to people you know who own them, and shop and compare prices.

"People often assume that a product should be exactly the same price everywhere, and of course, this is anti-free enterprise.

"Be sure you know the value of your signature on a contract. The most valuable thing you possess is your signature. Don't use it unless you're willing to be committed.

"Except for the 48-hour cooling-off period in Ontario and the equivalent in other provinces, a contract can't be broken and once you sign, you're committed to paying even if you change your mind."

Survey on Charity

Women More Skeptical

NORWALK, Conn. (UPI) — Why do you drop a coin in a beggar's tin cup or contribute to any charity?

In this era of motivational studies there's an answer. You give, according to a new survey, for one of three main reasons:

- Out of a sense of moral responsibility.
- To gain personal satisfaction.
- Because you feel guilty.

The survey on charity, done by the New York market research firm of Daniel Yankelovich Inc., for Save the Children Federation here, also found that women generally are more skeptical than men when it comes to giving. And the men? They're more discriminating in the selection of specific charities they support.

David Guyer, executive director of the federation celebrating its 40th anniversary, said the survey aimed to find ways in which the nation's oldest child sponsorship organization could improve its relations with its supporters. Last year they gave $31.7 million to the federation and two related organizations.

The study showed there are several types of givers. The smallest group, the committed, is the most active. This group is made up of persons who organize local chapters, visit the charity headquarters, question the annual report in terms of what the dollars were spent for. If you count yourself among the committed you probably are over 50, married and have an income well above the $15,000 per year mark. You give out of a sense of deep moral responsibility.

The second giver is the skeptic. This group, the Yankelovich study found, is somewhat larger than the committed. The skeptics mistrust most charities. Among the skeptics women outnumber men. The skeptics feel that charity ought to begin at home. The skeptics give to satisfy an inner desire to lend a hand to those needing help.

The Yankelovich survey found the largest group of givers in the discriminator class. They are very selective but once they pick a charity they tend to become rather mechanical about sending in their donations with little subsequent thought given to their choice.

What else was discovered: A significant proportion of people are looking for substantial personal involvement in charity.

The report also noted that inefficiency is more of a problem for charities than dishonesty. People were critical of duplicated or wasted effort. They tended to believe most charities are honest.

Ruling by Court Came Too Late

NEW HYDE PARK, N.Y. (UPI) — The doctors got a judge to overrule little Kalete Tole's parents' religious objections to using life-saving drugs and blood transfusions for her rare disease. But death came 10 days later anyway.

The eight-year-old Brooklyn girl died late Sunday at Long Island Jewish-Hillside Medical Centre in New Hyde Park. Her obscure disease, systemic lupus erythematosus, made her allergic to her body's own connective tissue.

The disease was far advanced and the doctors knew it was a long shot when they asked Supreme Court Justice B. Thomas Pantano for permission to use steroids, phenobarbitol and bolld transfusions.

Kalete's father, a member of the Gheez Nation, an African sect, was torn between his religious convictions and his daughter's life. He argued that he must follow his beliefs. The judge ruled for life.

Summer Recreational Program

Tag Day for Autistic Children Group

Victoria Society for Autistic Children of which Mrs. G. R. Pearkes is honorary chairman, is holding a tag day on Friday.

Jack Sullivan, tag day chairman is seeking volunteers as the society is quite small, just about 25 members, many of whom are parents of autistic children.

Monday raised at the tag day will be used for a summer recreational program for autistic children. It was just three years ago that the society opened its special class in the G. R. Pearkes Clinic for Handicapped Children.

Last fall the class came under Greater Victoria School Board and was moved to Sir James Douglas School.

The planned summer recreational program will be held at St. Ann's Academy and will be conducted by three university students.

The three psychology students — Bernice McGowan, Bill Colston and Paul Solansen — had intended to run the classes with an Opportunities for Youth grant. They were refused a grant so the society must raise the money itself if the classes are to be held.

Dr. Larry Axmaker, psychologist with the Greater Victoria School Board says the children who have been attending the classes would regress if they were away from school for two months. They would revert to infantile behavior and forget the behavior they learned at school. There are signs of this regression after short holidays at Christmas and Easter, he said.

There are eight children who have been attending the special classes at Sir James Douglas and there will be more at the summer classes. Ages range from seven to 15 years.

Autistic children are not psychotic or retarded but are completely withdrawn. They have little or no communication or interaction with other people, Axmaker says.

The society is hoping to start a pre-school age class of autistic children. This would enable many to start public school at a normal age.

Mrs. Maureen Butt of Victoria was elected president of the Medical Office Assistants Association of B.C. at the first annual meeting held in Vancouver recently.

Mrs. Annabel Pedersen, also of Victoria, was made the secretary of the new association.

One of the main objectives of this group is "To establish and maintain the highest possible standard of efficiency to the profession they serve."

The group is composed of members of the medical officers' staff, nurses, receptionists, bookkeepers and any medical office assistant who can meet the high standards demanded.

Dr. E. C. McCoy was dinner speaker and gave encouragemen to the association in its aim to spread the ideals of training and maintaining efficient medical office staff. The 1973 conference is set for Victoria.

The Oak Bay home of Dr. and Mrs. W. E. M. Mitchell, 2171 Granite, will be the setting for a garden party on Saturday.

Sponsored by the Victoria Branch, World Federalists of Canada, the party will be open to the public from 2 to 5 p.m.

There will be an international fashion show co-ordinated by Davender Bains. There will also be a sale of home cooking.

Funds will be used for expansion of the Federalist educational activities.

Blame the Girls for Hair

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: That letter from Ohio Teen could have been written by me. I am also a high school senior who hates to kiss a guy who has a moustache or a beard. But let's be honest — we girls are responsible for all that hair.

It all started when the Beatles came to this country and the teenyboppers shrieked, fainted and went completely ape over the group. The American boys felt they had to imitate the Beatles to win the favor of the girls. So they let their hair grow long and the inevitable happened. In true American style "bigger is better and most is best."

The youth of our nation became hair-worshippers. Hair became a symbol of the New Culture, independence and rebellion. Most parents hated it but I thought it was absolutely beautiful."

Ms. Herwig, an attorney, said she would very much like to participate in the recruiting of women for the bureau, particularly as special agents, although she does have a few reservations. "I think the most effective recruiting could be done by agents themselves," she said. "Not being an agent, I don't know what kind a recruiter I would be."

So now it's up to the girls to get rid of the hairy problem. And it is a problem. Keeping all that hair clean is work, and most guys don't bother. We girls must now say, "Off with the brush — or there'll be no kisses." Are you with me, Ann? — The All Clear In Eau Claire.

Dear Claire: I don't need to be with you. There's nobody with a beard or moustache I care to kiss. But lots of luck.

Dear Ann Landers: You have waged a most successful campaign against drop-in-visitors who don't even knock, for which we congratulate you. Many people who thought they owed it to friends and relatives to be on 24-hour call have come to realize that they were being taken advantage of. Your columns gave them the courage to put an end to it. Now will you do something for those of us who own small yachts?

A great many landlubbers don't know it's not only bad manners, but a legal offense to set foot on a boat until the words "come aboard" are spoken. For those who don't wish to shout, a light knock on the hull can be heard inside. And now the matter of shoes. It is an unspeakable gaffe to come aboard a yacht wearing ordinary street shoes. It could cause permanent damage to painted and varnished surfaces.

I am aware that a rather small segment of your readers own yachts but since you are read by people in every walk of life I felt this was the very place to go for help to get my message across. — Old Salt In Key West.

Dear Salt: Never let it be said that I discriminated against the rich. Here is your letter for the one-tenth of one per cent.

Top Woman in FBI

'A Nice Commie Plot'

Colonist - Los Angeles Times Service

WASHINGTON — Late last week, when Barbara Herwig walked into her office, she found a clipped newspaper cartoon which someone had left anonymously on top of her desk.

The cartoon shows a group of male FBI agents lined up in front of a half-opened door. The door reads, "FBI agent 62" and just visible inside is a pair of obviously feminine legs. "Well, if it is a Commie plot," says one of the male agents, "it's a nice Commie plot."

Today Barbara Herwig keeps that cartoon taped to the top of her "in-out" box, where she sees it daily, and where it reminds her of the uniqueness of her new position. She is special assistant to acting FBI director L. Patrick Gray III and, by virtue of her position, has suddenly become the highest ranking woman in the FBI.

It is unusual because women had no place in the FBI, excelp as secretaries, during the 48 years of J. Edgar Hoover's direction. But in the month since Hoover's death and Gray's appointment, the bureau appears to be opening up to women. And Ms. Herwig — as she prefers to be addressed — is very enthusiastic about the changes.

"We had talked about women in the FBI as special agents, and I always felt that Mr. Gray was inclined to think they shouldn't be excluded," she said. "I didn't think, however, that he would make the announcement so quickly. I hadn't even had the chance to talk to him about it as I had planned to do when we moved over here from the justice department. I was flabbergasted when he did it but I thought it was absolutely beautiful."

To that end, however, she is seriously considering spending some time at Quantico Marine Base (site of the FBI agents training school) to go through the 14-week course for agents. "I have to admit that being an agent would not exactly be the kind of job I would pick," she said, laughing. "I'm not very athletically inclined and don't really want to have to go out and fight somebody. Or arrest somebody. But I do think it's great that the opportunity has opened up.

She said she felt strongly, however, that many women would be able to fit the requirements, among them a minimum height of 5 feet 7 inches. "I'm sure not every women has the qualifications," she said, "but not every man does, either. It takes a combination of ability, background and interest, and I'm sure a lot of women have it. I've heard that some of the field officers have been discouraging women who have been inquiring — I don't think women should be discouraged. They should be told just what the job entails, however, and not a romanticized version of what it is."

Women-as-special agents will not be the only change in their FBI status. "I think my being here is opening some eyes to the fact that women can play a professional role here," Ms Herwig said.

Her husband died eight years ago and she moved to Calgary in 1969, after completing one year of business administration at Medicine Hat and four years as an office manager.

"It is no use giving adult women encouragment and financial assistance to go back to school for upgrading if there are no jobs for them when they graduate.

"Financial assistance shouldn't be thrown down the drain — managements' attitude towards hiring women has to be changed first.

"Here I am — mature, experienced, educated, need a job and have two children to support.

"I thought that with all these factors going for me I wouldn't have too much trouble getting a job, but I'm hitting just the opposite."

Here's the little economy import that's become such a success in Canada. With a sales increase this year of 62% over the same period a year ago.*

Why? Because we built it strong to take on any driving condition. From our hot Canadian summers, to our cold winters. Over all kinds of roads.

And that's the kind of car Canadian drivers wanted.

A tough little car with rack and pinion steering for precise control around corners and through bumper to bumper city traffic. With a 2-litre Overhead Camshaft engine, that's strong and dependable. Coupled to a silk-smooth 4-speed transmission, for swift positive acceleration. With power front disc brakes to let Cortina stop straight and fast — time after time. And it's all standard.

Inside, Cortina's roomy enough for 5 adults to travel in comfort. With a long list of standard features: loop-pile carpeting, electric rear window defroster, heavy duty heater, front and rear grab handles, armrests, cigarette lighter and fully reclining front bucket seats.

If you want more there's an optional automatic transmission and a dealer installed radio. But that's it. We made Cortina complete.

Whether you choose the Cortina 2-door or 4-door sedans, the sporty 2-door GT or the new Cortina 4-door Estate Wagon, you'll find Cortina is fun to drive — beautifully styled — and built to last. It's tough to beat.

U.S. To Plant Missile 'Hedge'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Pentagon disclosed plans Tuesday to develop an entirely new submarine-launched nuclear missile as a "hedge" against failure in the second round of U.S.-Soviet arms limitation talks.

Defence department spokesman Jerry Friedheim said the long range cruise missile would be launched from a submarine and flown like an airplane to its target at altitudes below 500 feet to avoid radar detection.

Friedheim said the cruise missile, a category of weapons not covered by the five-year offensive arm limitation agreements signed in Moscow, could not be ready for operational deployment before the late 1970s. The Pentagon is asking $40 million in the fiscal year starting July for its development.

The defence department has been working on cruise missiles since 1969, but has always described them as anti-ship weapons carrying conventional warheads.

But in testimony before congress Monday, defence secretary Melvin Laird listed a $20 million increase in defence budget cruise missile funds.

335 Canadians Died

OTTAWA (CP) — Troops of the Canadian 3rd Division scrambled ashore on the beaches of Normandy 28 years ago Tuesday to help launch Operation Overlord, the Allied invasion of Nazi-occupied northwest Europe.

The number of Canadians who landed on D-Day — which was to lead to the collapse of Hitler's Nazi regime less than a year later — came close to the 14,500 men scheduled in advance planning.

Casualties numbered 946, including 335 killed.

PROVI

"An employed citizen trying his best is far better than a citizen in jail," Judge William Ostler said Tuesday in Victoria Provincial Court.

Putting that belief into practice, the judge disregarded a pre-sentence report suggestion that William McVie, 23, of 1115 Princess, might be given a term of detention and instead fined McVie a total of $210 and put him on probation for six months.

McVie pleaded guilty May 23 to three Victoria charges containing a total of six counts of false pretences involving less than $50. They followed the writing of six worthless cheques between Feb. 25 and April 26 for a total of $105.

The judge said he chose the sentence of a fine and probation because McVie had no previous record, had recently found a job and was "trying his best" to get ahead.

Total terms of one year definite and one year indeterminate were ordered by Ostler for each of Patrick David Nicholsono, 16, of 2807 Nanaimo, and Dennis Joseph Henry Derepentigny, 16, of 1040 North Park.

They had been raised to adult court from juvenile court before pleading guilty May 29 to a joint Saanich charge of breaking and theft about April 23 at Growers Wine, 3948 Quadra, where a radio and liquor worth a total of $138 were taken.

At the same time, Derepentigny pleaded guilty to a Victoria charge of a Victoria house breakin and theft of coins about April 28 and a two-count Victoria shoplifting charge involving two transistor radios removed about May 13 from Zeller's.

Nicholson pleaded guilty May 29 to a Victoria charge of possession about May 14 or known stolen property — one of the radios, then pleaded guilty Tuesday to a two-count Victoria charge of breakin and theft. It resulted from two breakins last Friday at a

PROVINCIAL COURT

"An employed citizen trying his best is far better than a citizen in jail," Judge William Ostler said Tuesday in Victoria Provincial Court.

Putting that belief into practice, the judge disregarded a pre-sentence report suggestion that William McVie, 23, of 1115 Princess, might be given a term of detention and instead fined McVie a total of $210 and put him on probation for six months.

McVie pleaded guilty May 23 to three Victoria charges containing a total of six counts of false pretences involving less than $50. They followed the writing of six worthless cheques between Feb. 25 and April 26 for a total of $105.

The judge said he chose the sentence of a fine and probation because McVie had no previous record, had recently found a job and was "trying his best" to get ahead.

Total terms of one year definite and one year indeterminate were ordered by Ostler for each of Patrick David Nicholsono, 16, of 2807 Nanaimo, and Dennis Joseph Henry Derepentigny, 16, of 1040 North Park.

At the same time, Derepentigny pleaded guilty to a Victoria charge of a Victoria house breakin and theft of coins about April 28 and a two-count Victoria shoplifting charge involving two transistor radios removed about May 13 from Zeller's.

Nicholson pleaded guilty May 29 to a Victoria charge of possession about May 14 or known stolen property — one of the radios, then pleaded guilty Tuesday to a two-count Victoria charge of breakin and theft. It resulted from two breakins last Friday at a home at 963 Caledonia, where eight partly-filled bottles of liquor were taken.

□

Wayne Frederick Leonard, 20, of 1116 Collinson, was jailed by Ostler for a total of 18 months after pleas of guilty to three Victoria charges — possession of heroin, a breach of probation and two counts of fraud.

The heroin charge concerned 16 capsules found May 5 at his residence (a policeman testified Leonard had a habit "in excess of one capsule" a day).

The fraud counts resulted from use of another person's credit card May 30 to obtain a $73.50 ring at tthe Bay and a $167.99 TV set at the T. Eaton Co. The probation breach was the commission of these offences while Leonard was on probation received March 10 for break-in and theft.

□

Two persons were given nominal one-day jail terms and fined $200 each after pleading guilty to separate Victoria charges of attempted uttering. The charges against Clifford Horton, 46, of 23 Menzies, and Christopher James Hanley, 38, of 921 Pandora, both involved attempts May 20 at a Victoria drugstore to use forged prescriptions for methadone.

□

Joseph Wayne Mills, 20, of 2121 Sayward, pleaded guilty before Ostler to a two-count Victoria charge of impaired driving and refusing to take a breath-analysis test Monday. He was fined $400 on the first count and $250 on the second.

□

In traffic court, two persons pleaded guilty before Judge E. F. N. Robinson to separate charges of impaired driving in Victoria. They were Allan Edward Merriman, 50, of 1065 Burdett, stopped Monday and fined $400, and Paul Perron, 39, of 513 Warren, stopped April 12 and fined $350.

Spray Planes May Be Shot

COQUITLAM (CP) — Some Coquitlam residents have threatened to shoot at low-flying planes doing mosquito spraying, a member of the anti-pollution group SPEC told municipal council Monday night. Mirriam Doucet questioned the value of the Fraser Valley mosquito control board program and said "some people say that if a spray plane comes over their home they will be unkind and will shoot at it."

Watch Those Weedy Lots

Property owners who let weeds grow on vacant lots in Victoria can expect a visit from the city weed inspector, according to Victoria parks administrator Cliff Bate.

Bate, in a statement, noted that vacant lots and properties quickly become unkempt from long grass and often produce a large quantity of noxious weeds.

"We would ask all property owners to examine their holdings and, if necessary, clean them of this growth," the statement said.

"When the obligations of ownership are not met in this regard, the city weed inspector is often called upon to remind them of their responsibilities by invoking the noxious weeds bylaw."

Grant Extension Helps Researchers

An extension to a federal Local Initiatives Program grant will allow continued employment for eight young people who are researching and preparing material for the Environmental Centre of Greater Victoria's library.

And the citizens' group, initially known as Environment 100 after it was created in 1970, has moved to a new downtown location for the second time within three months.

The local initiatives grant received in February was scheduled to run out at the end of May and was extended to the end of September.

The environment centre now is located in two upstairs rooms at 508 Fort but has the same telephone number — 388-9832. Previous location was on Wharf Street.

The grant covers the researchers' salaries at $90 each a week. All told, the grant will represent about $26,500. The summer staff is working on a bibliography which will touch on about 40 environmental subjects.

Collision with Police Car

Motorcyclist Injured

A 17-year-old Saanich motorcyclist is in fair condition in hospital and his vehicle and a Saanich police car are considered writeoffs following their collision early Tuesday at Tillicum and the Trans-Canada Highway.

Saanich police said Constable Christopher Bowles, 25, was on his way to respond to a police call about a fight in the 3300 block Douglas when the collision occurred.

They said the motorcycle of Allan David Smith, 2886 Inlet, struck the right rear door of the police car and Smith was thrown over the roof, landing 30 to 40 feet away near a concrete abutment. He suffered a double left-leg fracture and a broken wrist.

Bowles was not hurt. Damage to the police car, a 1970 due to be traded in shortly, was estimated at $1,500 while damage to the motorcycle, a 1969 model, was reported as about $1,000.

KING FISHERMAN

Dash for Safety Paid Dividend

A man who had never caught a salmon heavier than 10 pounds has taken a commanding lead in the chinook salmon category of the King Fisherman Contest.

Harry Linton, 3149 Glen Lake Road, takes the lead with a 46.4-pounder he landed off Sooke around noon Saturday as he was making a dash from Secretary Island for the safety of Sooke Harbor as a gale started to whip up.

He was using Uncle Tom strip and battled the big fish for an hour. He was all alone in the storm-tossed boat and said "at times I thought I was going to land on the rocks. I was on my knees in the boat."

This year Dave Wigmore had held the lead with a 40-pounder from Beechey Head waters.

Fisheries guardian Jack Brooks inspected the big spring (chinook) Saturday at Sooke Harbor Marina and described it as a Columbia River chinook, the biggest he had ever seen.

Site Changed

A now-familiar summer institution will appear in a new setting this year, when Victoria Summer School of Music opens sessions on the campus of St. Michael's University School, Richmond Road.

First launched in 1963, then and for some years in the facilities of the old St. Margaret's School, Fort, the school will run for its 10th season from July 3 to Aug. 4.

Principal faculty members will be Dorothy Swetnam, piano, and Clayton Hare, violinist and conductor.

Where there are now a number of summer music sessions available in and near Victoria, Victoria Summer School of Music was when it began the first.

Operated then and since almost wholly without subsidy through the help of concerned individuals and organizations.

The sessions concentrate on chamber music, individual instruction, solo performance and string orchestra. Students have come to it from as far away as Venezuela, New Zealand and New England.

Today many of those students are now ranking musicians in many centres of Europe and North America.

As this is the school's decennial year, special celebrations are planned. It is hoped one will be a final concert in which former students can participate.

Summer Chore for Militia, Students

'Cleanup Canada'

OTTAWA (CP) — A country-wide litter and rubbish cleanup is being organized by the defence department.

It will be run by the militia —the reserve army—as a component of this year's federally-financed student summer employment program and will involve cleanup projects in almost every province.

Principle targets of the campaign will be rivers and creeks, especially the frequently befouled stretches that run through municipal areas.

The program represents the chief element in part of the defence department's summer employment effort called citizenship ans community assistance.

It is a variation on a youth leadership course sponsored by the military in previous years, but with the accent on community development work rather than on theoretical instruction.

Capt. Ian Barnes, project officer, said Tuesday that 68 projects have been authorized in consultation with community authorities across Canada, and they will employ 2,300 high school students, male and female.

The projects include a ceremonial guard and tattoo at Signal Hill in St. John's, Nfld., and a ceremonial guard at the Citadel in Halifax, each to employ 50 students.

They also include such jobs as the removal of a sunken vessel from the harbor at Sydney, N.S., to employ 25 students; restoration of frontier-type buildings at Piche Island, Windsor, Ont., to employ 47; and development of a handicapped children's camp at Edmonton, to employ 13.

But most of the jobs involve cleanups of one kind or another.

Rivers expected to be relieved of a burden of bottles, tin cans and other refuse range from the St. John at Fredericton to the Saguenay at Arvida, Que., the Thames at London, Ont., the Humber at Toronto, the Assiniboine at Brandon, Man., the Sarcee and Elbow rivers at Calgary and the Thompson at Kamloops.

In addition numerous municipal parks will be combed of debris and generally spruced up.

The program will cost $1.4 million.

In total, the defence department's share of the student summer program will cost $10.3 million compared with $8 million last year and will employ 15,360 compared with 11,715.

The increase is accounted for largely by a jump to 10,000 from 6,000 in the number of students scheduled to be given militia training.

Logging Firm Wins Award

VANCOUVER (CP) — Crown Zellerbach Canada Ltd. has won eight of 20 Workmen's Compensation Board safety awards, made annually to forest firms which have achieved the best safety record for their class in the previous year. The firm had an accident frequency rate of 11.98, compared with the logging industry average of 57.07.

Hong Inquest

Bullet W Death C

Cause of death in the Frank Hong murder case was a gunshot wound to the skull, a pathologist at Royal Jubilee Hospital testified at an inquest Tuesday.

Hong, 46, was found dead in his Fisgard Street store early May 31.

Dr. Kenneth Thornton, head of the pathology department at the hospital, told the coroner's jury Tuesday that death was caused by a cereberal hemorrhage, lacerations and a fracture of the base of the skull which occurred as a result of a gunshot wound.

Thornton said he found a bullet and a fragment of it in Hong's skull. It had entered below the inner end of the right eyebrow.

There was no indications of injuries caused by a struggle or fight, he added. He es-

BUTCHART GARDENS. NEVER, EVER, HAVE THESE FAMOUS GARDENS BEEN LOVELIER, MORE INVITING, AS THEY PRESENT "SPRINGTIME '72" . . . ROMANTIC NIGHT LIGHTING . . . FLORAL RESTAURANT . . . GORGEOUS HANGING BASKETS . . . THE JAPANESE GARDEN IS PARTICULARLY OUTSTANDING . . . SHOW GREENHOUSE . . . FASCINATING SEED AND GIFT SHOP . . . ENTERTAINMENT. OPEN EVERY DAY, 9 A.M. TO 11 P.M.

BUTCHART GARDENS. Developed from an old, cavernous limestone quarry over half a century ago to become one of the world's most unusual, most written about, talked about, admired attractions. Many visitors say they are even lovelier under the romantic night lighting (every evening, dusk till 11 p.m.) Be sure to see the fabulous Sunken Garden and the spectacular "Ross Fountains" as they present their colorful "Ballet to the Stars" (continuous performances). This alone is worth the price of admission.

BUTCHART GARDENS FLORAL RESTAURANT open every day, serving delightful lunches and afternoon teas 11 a.m. to 5 p.m., delicious hot dinners 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. Coffee and Snack Bar always open.

HERE'S A GOOD SUGGESTION. Plan to arrive late in the afternoon. See the gardens by sunlight, then relax and dine leisurely in the Floral Restaurant. As darkness takes over, see the gardens again as a thousand hidden lights combine with the moon and stars, the hills, trees and shrubs, lakes, lily ponds and fountains to create a fairyland, softly perfumed by the flowers — a spectacle so unusual, so grand, it's indescribable.

BUTCHART GARDENS ENTERTAINMENT EVERY AFTERNOON. Monday through Friday (inc.) 1:30 - 3:30 p.m. "The Butchart Gardeners" doing their hoeing in a hilarious and musical way . . . Saturday and Sunday 1 - 3 p.m. the humorous and talented "Butchart Buskers Band."

Hong Inquest

Bullet Wound Death Cause

Cause of death in the Frank Hong murder case was a gunshot wound to the skull, a pathologist at Royal Jubilee Hospital testified at an inquest Tuesday.

Hong, 46, was found dead in his Fisgard Street store early May 31.

Dr. Kenneth Thornton, head of the pathology department at the hospital, told the coroner's jury Tuesday that death was caused by a cereberal hemorrhage, lacerations and a fracture of the base of the skull which occurred as a result of a gunshot wound.

Thornton said he found a bullet and a fragment of it in Hong's skull. It had entered below the inner end of the right eyebrow.

There was no indications of injuries caused by a struggle or fight, he added. He estimated the time of death as being somewhat before 8 a.m.

Hong, born in Victoria, was owner of the Rainbow Fish Co., 560 Fisgard, a business which his grandfather founded almost 50 years ago.

His body was discovered lying in a pool of blood shortly after 8 a.m. that morning by Hong's long-time friend, Ald. Ed Lum of Saanich.

Police are still seeking information about a man seen talking to Hong in the front doorway of his store shortly before 8 a.m. He is described as being in his 40s, with greying hair in a brushcut growing out, slender, about five feet, 10 inches tall, wearing a long-sleeved green workshirt.

Coroner Edmond Jorre de St. Jorre adjourned the inquest until 7:30 p.m. July 6 in the Victoria Law Courts building on Burdett.

Stand Confirmed–Anderson

Oil Spill Taste of What's Ahead?

This week's oil spill at Cherry Point, Wash., although relatively small and occurring under good weather conditions, is a foretaste of what is bound to come in much worse form if Alaska oil is shipped down Canada's west coast to Cherry Point.

That's the view of David Anderson, new provincial Liberal party leader who as a Member of Parliament has carried his fight against the west coast oil route all the way to the United States Supreme Court.

In a telephone interview from Dawson Creek Tuesday night, Anderson said the spill confirmed many points he had been making.

"Even though the spill was small and the weather good, the oil was carried, as we predicted, onto Canadian shores. It showed that the cleanup technology is poor, inadequate. No further risks should be taken."

He added: "The United States Coast Guard has predicted a 144,000-gallon spill from various causes every year just en route between Alaska and Cherry Point. That's apart from terminal spills like this one, which they expect to occur every week or 10 days.

"This spill was not Alaska oil. The risk would be magnified should that oil be allowed to come down the coast.

"The important thing to do now is keep fighting that route. To do that funds are needed. Concerned people contributed $15,000 to launch our court fight, and of that only about $1,500 remains.

"Right now we need about 8,000 people to donate $5 each to continue the battle. The donations can be sent to Canadian Wild Life Federation in trust, Post Office Box 741, Victoria."

Andesson is flying from B.C. to Washington to testify Friday before the Joint Economic Council of the U.S. Congress — a body including both senators and members of their lower house.

The committee rarely hears anyone from outside the U.S., and Anderson willl emphasize the merits of the Canadiam Mckenzie Vaalley oil route, the time it would take to build, why it would be better.

$10,400 DRAW

If you're a successful salesman who feels he could increase his earnings substantially if given the chance, we have such an opportunity for you. We are an internationally successful, expanding U.S. manufacturer who has just started up a Canadian operation. This entry into a new market allows us to offer you your choice of a protected territory. Our broad line of industrial products is used by virtually every business, industry, institution and municipality.

We'll give you a paycheque of $200 weekly, high commissions on new and repeat business are paid monthly. Special incentive programs and other benefits add to your income. Sales of our products are not limited by economic and seasonal trends. Many of our salesmen's earnings are astounding and we'll prove this to you at your interview. We'll give you intensive training in our methods and products so that you'll have all the tools for your success. In addition, our new Toronto plant makes it possible for us to give you full co-operation on special orders and strategy needs.

We're seeking an ambitious, hard worker with direct sales first call closing experience, preferably with tangibles, who can build a good rapport with customers through repeat visits. If you have the potential and the desire to step up eventually to a management position, don't worry, we have the opportunities to match your ambition. You should be married, have a stable personal and job background and own a late model car. Overnight travel is not involved.

PART-TIME E

Bruce Lowther

A lot of people are up in arms over the probable cancellation in the near future of the Dick Cavett show, and that's good.

I like to see praise and protests about TV shows because they are the only methods, apart from ratings, that networks and producers have of knowing what the public feels. And they DO listen.

But I can't go along with Ralph Nader, who feels Cavett is a consumer commodity that's just as important as car safety. It is irresponsible, says Nader, to leave the fate of Cavett up to the ratings — and he wants ABC to hold public hearings before dropping the show.

Why didn't he say the same thing about Ed Sullivan? Did he decide Sullivan contributed nothing to the advancement of civilization? I imagine Nader didn't even think about Sullivan but I'll bet he thinks he knows what the public should have. Let him write like every other Cavett fan.

BUREAU OF USELESS INFORMATION: Tuesday's answer — Cooperstown, N.Y., and Canton, Ohio, belong in the sports hall of fame because Cooperstown is the site of baseball's hall of fame while the football one is in Canton. And Canton's pro football team was the Bulldogs.

Today's question — For the rest of this week, we go back to the business names of once-famous people and their occupations. Kindly list the occupations of the following four gentlemen, only one of whom is active: Heywood Broun, Steve Nagy, Craig Wood, William Wyler. Answers Thursday.

Wednesday Highlights

C-5:00 p.m.—The CBC lists baseball, Atlanta at Montreal, but its labor troubles likely will change all programs to 11 p.m.—2, 6.

C-7:30—KVOS reruns reruns of The Virginian—12.

C-8:30—Speaking of reruns, the McMillan-Night Gallery tandem from now to 11 p.m. is the most entertaining viewing of the evening—5.

C-9:00—CHAN starts the Lloyd Bridges Water World series—8.

C-10:00—Last of the Billy Graham meetings in North Carolina—12.

CABLE 10—7:00 p.m., Chroniques de France; 7:30, the Vancouver version of Tax Reform '72; 8:00, Community Pets looks at cats; 8:30, Project Travel; 9:00, Nature's Best; 9:30, B.C. Trails.

Wednesday Movies

9:30 a.m.—It's a Big Country (1952 eight-story MGM flagwaver), Fredric March, Gary Cooper, Ethel Barrymore, Gene Kelly, Janet Leigh, Van Johnson, many more. Some stories are good, some only fair—4.

C-12:45 noon—East of Sudan (above-average 1956 Africaction). It's better than routine only because of stars Anthony Quayle and Sylvia Sims—6, 8.

C-4:00 p.m.—Four Girls in Town (passable 1957 inside-Hollywood thing), Gia Scala, Julie Adams, Elsa Martinelli, many more. Universal thought a film about how it found new stars would be a good idea but Universal was wrong—7.

C-9:00—Tobruk (fairish 1966 war action), Rock Hudson, George Peppard, Nigel Green. The only stars are Green and the special-effects men—7.

11:00—Sagebrush Family Travels West (1942 Bobby Clark comedy). Sage means wise so be wise and brush it off—13.

C-11:30—A Place for Lovers (only fair 1969 romantic drama), Marcello Mastroianni, Faye Dunaway. She went from her Bonnie and Clyde hit directly into this, which was to have made her a big star but almost ended her career—7, 12.

● 12:00—Boomerang (1947 court drama, merely superb), Dana Andrews, Arthur Kennedy, Lee Cobb. Part documentary, part social comment, part excitement and one of the most underrated films of all time—6, 8.

Wednesday Radio

7:00 a.m.—The Epsom Derby, live from Britain—CBU (690).

8:00 p.m.—The CBC's Choral Concert, the only item of interest reported to me, includes Mendelssohn's Hymn of Praise and Liszt's Hungarian Coronation Mass—CBU-FM (105.7).

●—Recommended; C—Color.

FOR HEALTH SAKE
"EAT CHICKEN"
Broiler chicken meat contains a higher percentage of protein — the important vitamins, and essential minerals, yet less calories and fat than the average of the red meats.

I believe I'm more qualified than most to satisfy both buyers and sellers in the area because my family and I live in our own home there. It's easier for a Realtor to sell the advantages of a residential area if he's sold on the area himself. All Realtors give competent service, but I can give you that little extra.
If the time has come for you to consider selling please talk it over with me. I can give you valuable help without obligation. Let me represent the area by representing you. Call me anytime.

Don't Feed It

When some member of the family becomes sick or goes off color, the average mother's first impulse is to press food upon the patient — very often the worst possible thing she should do.

When a treasured plant similarly takes on a hangdog look and is obviously under par in health, its owner feels this same impulse to feed it. I guess I get asked on an average of about five times per week this question: "What can I give my ailing plant?"

Generally speaking, a sick plant shouldn't be fed at all. Only plants in good health can make use of fertililer, and massive doses of plant food will usually do more harm than good.

To take one typical case, a rose bush or a shrub bought and planted earlier this spring may be looking down in the mouth, leaves are drooping and it is making no new growth at all. Would a dose of fertilizer help here?

In this case, the plant's hangdog appearance is more than likely due to the fact that it has made few or no new roots since being planted. It is incapable, therefore, of taking in much in the way of food, and the withering of some leaves is the plant's way of balancing its budget — of reducing the outgo of moisture from the leaves.

* * *

Before the plant can take in more moisture and food, new roots must be grown, and with little or no input, these must be manufactured from reserves of food stored in the woody tissues. Neither food nor stimulants can help at this stage, and a dose of fertilizer would be like trying to force a sirloin steak upon a desperately ill human.

What is needed here is just good nursing; what the hospital nurses call TLC—Tender Loving Care. See that the ailing plant has sufficient moisture at the roots, firm soil, and freshen up the leaves frequently with fine, misty sprays of clear water.

Some protection from the wind is a big help in reducing the loss of moisture through evaporation from the leaves and stems. Temporary shading, too, can help put a sick plant on the road to recovery. When the plant has succeeded in making some new roots, it should pick up and start growing; THEN you can give it a boost with a shot of fertilizer.

* * *

A very common sickness in houseplants is simply air starvation at the roots, brought about by over-watering. The dropping of unopened flower buds and the loss of lower, older leaves are some of the symptoms which appear when the soil is maintained in such a soggy condition that no air can enter.

Usually, in such cases, it isn't enough just to reduce the frequency of watering, for the soil will have become sour and stagnant from prolonged sogginess. Best treatment is to unpot the plant, scratch away almost all the old contaminated soil, and repot the plant into fresh, clean potting soil. Keep out of the sun until new growth commences, giving only enough water to maintain the soil in a just moist state. Recovery can be speeded up spraying the leaves daily or oftener with a fine mist of plain water.

U.S. Army Turns Pro

"The U.S. Army is now offering a $1,500 cash bonus to men who agree to enlist in a combat unit—news item."

SAIGON, June 5, 1978 — Sergeant Hamilton (Giant) Burger emerged today as the top money winner on the Vietnam circuit so far this year.

"I'm shooting for 200 grand," the freckle-faced rookie said with a grin as he fondled the barrel of his trusty M-16.

* * *

Burger's enviable record began when he collected the standard $1,500 bonus for enlisting in a combat unit. On top of this he picked up a $5,000 bonus for coming to Vietnam plus the new $10,000 bonus paid to front-line volunteers.

But most of the hard-hitting youngster's earnings came in prize money — 47 search and destroy missions at $400 each; 16 ambushes at $200; and a record 52 enemy kills at $1,000 a hit.

* * *

"It was in the waning moments and they were putting up a tough fight," the young soft-spoken hero modestly told newsmen. "I thought maybe they had me. My shots were going wide. So I leaned back and went for the bomb."

He hefted a fragmentation grenade and flashed his warm smile. "I was lucky enough to heave a perfect strike. After that, it was like shooting ducks in a rain barrel."

"We're all mighty proud of him," Captain Ace said, clapping his boy on the shoulder. "We'll all be real surprised if he doesn't walk away with Rookie-of-the-Year honors."

* * *

A reporter mentioned that $100,000 was a lot of money for one so young. "Well, it sure does beat swiping hub caps," said Burger, laughing.

Captain Ace frowned. "Folks back home think life's cheap out here in Asia. It sure isn't. In the first 10 years of this war we spent more than $100 billion and killed less than a million gooks. That's more'n $100,000 a gook.

"This new way's not only 50 times cheaper, but you ought to see what it's done for morale. The boys have developed a real gung-ho competitive spirit. Right, soldier?"

Burger, a high school dropout, had only a minor so-so record (two arrests for car-boosting, one for vandalism) before he decided to turn pro.

But as Captain Ace put it today: "We're real proud to have a promising young prospect like Burger here on our team. Like all the boys in the new army, he knows what he's fighting for."

The Rating Game

JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD — Claude Jarman, former child star, bossman of the San Francisco Film Festival and now the executive producer of Fillmore, was in town the other day personally fighting a low rating on his movie. "This a rock movie that has no nudity, no sex, no drugs and no violence . . . and yet it gets a bad rating," says Claude. The movie, a documentary, chronicles the last week of the famed Fillmore West in San Francisco: This is the club that spawned the rock movement in San Francisco, showcasing such great groups as Jefferson Airplane and the like. In all, 13 groups which got their start at Fillmore showed up for the last week's festivities. "The picture got its rating solely on the colorful language used by Bill Graham, owner of the club. Bill uses language we have all heard since we were five years old." The main reason Claude is in town fighting the rating is because with a movie of this sort, the difference between one rating and another is several millions dollars.

* * *

Re the Tom Sawyer casting item the other day, Dennis Weaver says neither he nor his wife have any objection to his son Rusty playing the title role. "We're leaving it up to him entirely," said Dennis. "But you know how 13-year-old kids are. He's undecided whether to become a movie star or a basketball star."

* * *

Call from Georgie Jessel who has a house that is a museum filled with pictures of Jessel with popes, presidents, gangsters, world leaders and also very pretty actresses. Plus a couple other girls. "There's a good chance that I may be going away for a long time — not from this earth — but to a diplomatic post in Korea. That is, if Nixon gets re-elected. If McGovern gets in, I'll be a barber in Newark. But I have decided to give my collection to waiting rooms of hospitals." It's rather a novel idea — and unique. And a picture of Jessel with a young Elizabeth Taylor certainly would be better viewing than a diploma from a school of medicine.

* * *

Frank McCarthy, the producer of Patton, is busy cutting the movie for next season's TV debut on ABC-TV. It means cutting out a few swear words as uttered by George C. Scott. At least, ABC is giving the producer the privilege of cutting it instead of letting some movie jockey slice it with a pair of shears as is often done on the late, late show.

* * *

The Burt Reynolds nude centrefold in Cosmopolitan has turned into a publicity gold mine. Latest offer — one of hundreds — comes from the Sunny Sands Nudist Resort in Pierson, Fla. They want to use Burt as sponsor and nude star of their Invitational Volleyball Tournament. Burt said no thanks. He plays lousy volleyball.

* * *

Jack Benny headed the list of famous violinists who paid tribute to Isaac Stern at Manhattan's Hotel Plaza. Benny recalled that Stern had asked him once to do a benefit for the San Francisco symphony. "It's your home town," said Benny, "why don't you do the concert?" "The most I can get is $10 a ticket," said Stern, one of the world's great violinists. "It takes someone who plays as lousy as you to get $100 a ticket." Benny may be lousy but it's not for lack of practice. Even at age 78, he still practises four hours daily. As the late Spike Jones once said: "You have to be extra good to play lousy."

Culture Isn't Sissy

I picked up a couple of my daughters at an opera house not long ago, where they had been watching a full-length performance of Swan Lake.

As the doors opened, thousands of people poured out, and almost all were women and girls; not only were men far in the minority, but most of them seemed to be minority-type men.

It occurs to me that the Women's Lib movement needs to be accompanied by a Men's Liberation, too — so that it is no longer considered downright effeminate for a man to interest himself in such activities as the ballet.

If women became narrow and constricted through cultural confinement to the kitchen and the boudoir, so do men likewise become narrow through their self-confinement to the bleachers and the locker-room. If woman wants to be more than a mammary gland, man must be more than a jock.

* * *

In Russia, as I have pointed out before, not only is the Bolshoi Ballet applauded equally by both sexes, but the men who dance in it are fully as heterosexual as any of our football players or any other national male symbols.

(Even what we call "being intellectual" is a cultural, not a biological, matter; we look upon chess-players as "egg-heads", but, again in Russia, factory workers play the game as avidly as savants.)

When a star athlete like Rosie Grier takes up petit-point in public, we smile indulgently, because he has plenty of masculine credentials; but for the average man to be seen doing this on a bus would immediately stigmatize him as "one of those."

Because it is considered effeminate to enjoy the ballet, it is patronized mostly by women and homosexuals; and this reinforcement keeps normal men away in greater numbers, for fear of being labelled odd, not to say queer.

Women are fast awakening to the fact that a lot of traits and tendencies categorized as "female" in the past are simply cultural baggage that ought to be dumped overboard.

* * *

Men have to awaken to the same truth for themselves, and recognize that a delight in poetry, or a taste for ballet, is not a matter of genes but of environmental development and cultural warping.

The North American male's desperate fear of being considered a "sissy" may cover a sense of insecurity that he would be much more of a man to face.

Flooding Threat Eases In B.C.

KAMLOOPS (CP) — The flood threat in B.C. has not yet passed — although it appears it may be on the wane — but plans are being made in the Kamloops and Fraser Valley areas to prepare better defences for the next high-water year.

The majority of residents from the flooded Oak Hills subdivision near here have indicated they want to return to their homes on low-lying land, provided they receive compensation for damage and get better flood protection.

A meeting here set up two committees — one from mobile home dwellers and one from homeowners — to work towards receiving as much compensation as possible from the provincial and federal governments for their losses in Oak Hills. The subdivision was inundated by waters of the North Thompson River after a dike broke Friday.

At Abbotsford, Laing told Fraser Valley mayors and officials he would look into the possibility of low-cost federal loans to municipalities to help them pay their share of the federal-provincial program of 1968.

"We lend money to corporations at a low rate to build docks and wharves," Laing said in response to a suggestion by Matsqui Mayor Doug Taylor. "If it would clinch the thing, that kind of money should be used to help municipalities pay their share of flood control."

An engineer with the hydrology division, provincial water resources branch, said Tuesday the Fraser River seems to have reached the peak of its runoff.

Garbage Continues Piling Up

VANCOUVER (UPI) There was no end in sight Tuesday to the strike by civic employees which has left garbage rotting in downtown streets, parks and beaches unattended and strewn with glass and municipal services shut down for 41 days.

Striking civic outside workers Tuesday voted by a 6-1 margin to reject a contract settlement proposed by the B.C. Mediation Commission to end the strike in Vancouver and four suburban municipalities.

Members of The Canadian Union of Public Employees, local 1004, voted 611 to 104 in a secret ballot to reject the recommendation of a 15-per-cent wage boost over two years.

About 1,500 Vancouver inside workers, represented by the Municipal and Regional Employees Union, and CUPE members on strike in Burnaby, New Westminister, Richmond and Delta will vote later this week on the proposal.

The commission recommendation was made last week following a two-day hearing on the CUPE case only, involving about 3,500 workers, at the request of the Municipal Labor Relations Bureau, the bargaining agent for Vancouver and five suburban municipalities.

The MLRB endorsed the recommendation and the city of Vancouver extended the same offer to the inside workers.

B.C., Building Unions Head for Clash Today

'We'll Ignore Order'

● Forced-choice arbitration urged by Shrum. Page 17

VANCOUVER (CP)— A confrontation between the B.C. government and the province's construction unions appeared inevitable Tuesday night as all hope of meeting Labor Minister James Chabot's deadline of noon today for contract settlement was lost.

Jim Kinnaird, president of the B.C. and Yukon Building and Construction Trades Council, said another week of negotiations was needed to end the industry's strike-lockout. "But we're not going to ask for it. The hell with him (Chabot)."

Chabot said, however, that the government "is not prepared to start fooling around with deadlines now."

"They've had ample time," Chabot said. "If the ratifications (of all 18 contracts) aren't in by noon, the order goes in."

Chabot said the cabinet would meet in New Westminster tonight and pass an order-in-council ordering a return-to-work and a binding settlement by the B.C. Mediation Commission.

Kinnaird said: "We'll ignore the damn thing; it's as simple as that."

C. J. Connaghan, president of the Construction Labor Relations Association which locked out all 18 construction unions five weeks ago, said: "If he (Chabot) moves, we will obey the law."

A government order under Section 18 of the Mediation Commission Act would give the parties in a contract dispute 24 hours to resume work. It is understood the cabinet would time things so that construction work would be ex-

Saving the Planet: What's at Stake?

Industrial man is living on borrowed time. Having recklessly consumed fast-diminishing supplies of basic raw materials, and in the process over-populated and fouled his planet, he has at last realized that it can't go on indefinitely. The UN Conference on the Human Environment, currently taking place in Stockholm, is the first major international effort to face up to these massive problems.

As background material to some of the problems under discussion in Stockholm, the Colonist is presenting a series of articles dealing with the more urgent aspects of the human dilemma.

The series opens on Page 5 today. The Topic: Population. Subsequent articles will deal with the threat of food supplies, to water and air, and to wildlife — all of which, explains writer Gamini Seneviratne, are vital to mankind's existence.

Mother firmly on nest while workers look on

Evicted Mom Ducks Issue

Tuesday a move had to be made. Don Adams, SPCA inspector, went to the site and moved nest and mother to a spot near the reservoir on Summit Street.

The mother took off for a 20-minute swim in the reservoir, then returned to the original nest site. Adams managed to catch her and take her to the new location.

"She looked the situation over for about 10 minutes, covered the eggs with the down in the nest, then went away," Adams said.

"I waited until there was danger of the eggs cooling, then took them home and put them in an incubator."

There they will stay for the remaining six days of their incubation period, unless the mother can be found and persuaded to take over once more. Adams is going back to the site this morning to see if he can find her.

If not, duck-fanciers can take comfort from the fact that mallards frequently nest twice in a season. Mother may soon be sitting on a new batch of eggs in a new nest, leaving her first brood to the incubator and the SPCA.

Adams Tuesday night was appreciative of the concern shown by the construction workers and the many citizens who telephoned him to ask after Mother Mallard and her eggs.

While he is not an expert on ducks, Adams has a wide knowledge of other wild birds and has hatched a number of their eggs successfully in his incubator.

Pollution: Canada Would Go It Alone

STOCKHOLM (CP) — Canada is prepared to initiate some international anti-pollution programs unilaterally even if they are not fully acceptable to the United Nations environment conference.

Environment Minister Jack Davis made this clear at a news conference Tuesday when he reported that his campaign to develop global anti-pollution standards is meeting increasing opposition.

The United States indicated in its presentation that it prefers national programs under which sovereignty would be protected. Delegation chairman Russell Train also wants to see the proposed permanent UN environment body tucked away as a commission under the UN Social and Economic Council, a move which Canada intends to fight, backed by a number of other countries.

Swedish Prime Minister Olof Palme said in an interview that he will support the Canadian view that the new agency should be given teeth under which it may launch global attacks on polluters.

Palme suggested such an agency might prove more effective in dealing with multinational companies whose operations are spread among many countries.

As 17 of the 112 countries presented their position papers before the plenary session Tuesday, it appeared evident that no matter how the infighting developed, Maurice Strong of Canada, the conference secretary-general, would get his permanent environment organization, though its strength is still in doubt.

The U.S. announced that it

The sources said cuts have been made in his scheduled trips to major Polish cities.

CRESCENT BEACH (CP) — Municipal workers and volunteers continued the messy job of cleaning up crude oil from beaches near the U.S. border Tuesday, while federal officials in Ottawa and Stockholm claimed credit for what was being done.

In Ottawa, Transport Minister Don Jamieson said his department was using all available devices in the area to clean up the oil slick.

In Stockholm, where he is attending the UN conference on the environment, Environment Minister Jack Davis said in a telephone interview that British Columbians could be assured he would take steps to have it cleaned up. A number of methods might be employed, including slick-lickers, he said.

California Returns Delayed

McGovern in Lead

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — George McGovern bolted into an early lead over Hubert Humphrey Tuesday night in the snarled California primary and claimed a majority of New Jersey's delegates. President Nixon also captured enough delegates in California to guarantee renomination.

With 5 per cent of the vote counted in the make or break California Democratic primary, McGovern led Humphrey by a margin of 52 to 37 per cent.

California Secretary of State Edmund Brown ordered county election officials not to release or even count votes until 11 p.m. A federal court order to keep the polls open in San Francisco until that hour prompted the secretary of state's ruling.

But the word did not get through at once to at least 4 of the 58 counties, including the San Francisco suburb of San Mateo where McGovern took the lead based on scattered returns. He also led big in the three other counties.

Meantime, McGovern won the New Mexico primary over Alabama's George Wallace and the South Dakota contest where he was unopposed. Early returns from New Jersey placed McGovern in the lead there.

AP—Reuter

SALISBURY — Rescuers burrowing into a Rhodesia coal mine where a massive explosion occurred Tuesday, trapping 468 men underground, found one survivor Tuesday night and three dead bodies.

A spokesman for the Wankie colliery said the survivor and the bodies were all found in the same area 300 feet below the surface in the central "Kamandama" shaft.

The spokesman said rescuers had been unable to penetrate further than the bottom of the central shaft, and added that heavy rockfalls had severely hampered rescue attempts.

The discovery of the survivor was the first official confirmation that anyone had lived through the explosion.

Shamrocks Hammered By Charging Burrards

VANCOUVER — A second-period collapse Tuesday night dropped Victoria Shamrocks into second place in the Western Lacrosse Association.

The Islanders, who had moved up with three straight victories, were outscored by 7-0 in the middle 20 minutes and went on to take a 13-4 thumping from Vancouver Burrards.

The same clubs meet tonight in Victoria, giving the Shamrocks a chance to pull even by evening the score against the rugged Mainlanders.

Shamrocks got off to a great start, Ken Alexander, Dave Thompson and Ranjit Dillon scoring in the first few minutes to ring up a 3-0 lead.

From there it seemed to get progressively worse. The hard-checking Burrards kept the high-scoring brothers, Ivan and Brian Thompson, pointless and ran it up steadily when the Victoria defence crumbled.

The efforts of Skip Chapman enabled Shamrocks to go into the second period at 3-2 but even his brilliance couldn't stop the largely-unchecked Burrards in the middle 20 minutes and it was 3-9 for the last period.

It was the fourth time this season that the Islanders have taken a second-period trouncing and the ninth time in 11 games they have outscored in the middle third of the game.

In their three previous worst efforts they were 1-8, 3-11 and 2-9 and they have been outscored, 67-32, in the second period while holding a 105-62 margin in the other two periods.

RALLY FAILS

They didn't come close to making it back Tuesday, Jack Kastelein ended a drought of about 40 minutes when he scored early in the third period but Burrards got the other three goals of the period.

Minus Charn Dhillon, Dennis Somner and Lonnie Restell, Shamrocks dressed Gary Austin, Muzz Bryant, Jerry Bains and Brian Travelbea Tuesday. For tonight's game they will suit up junior-stars Norm Baker and Jim Lynch and Gord Osinchuk of Nanaimo Labatts.

Game time is 8:30.

Richmond Roadrunners, Canadian Minto Cup champions last season, crushed Victoria McDonald's Bread, 15-7, before a crowd of 698 fans at Memorial Arena Tuesday night.

But, despite the loss, McDonald's clung to second place in the Pacific Junior "A" Lacrosse League by one point over the Roadrunners, who have two games in hand.

Roadrunners led only 5-4 after the first period and 8-7 at the end of 40 minutes but turned on a display of power to score seven unanswered goals in a third-period spree.

Scoring was well spread among members of the Richmond team with Bob Tasker scoring three goals and Jerry Pinder, Dave Durante and Harvey Olsen getting two each. The other goals were scored by Roy Crowe, Brian Tasker, Rico Bellusci, Ron Pinder, Robert Sawka and Jack Buchanan.

Jim Lynch led McDonald's scoring with two goals and the other scorers were Glen Neuman, Norm Baker, Jeevan Dillon, Danny Green and Tom Somner.

John Hamilton and Bill Robertson, who took over at the 14-minute mark of the third period when the score was 12-7, combined for 48 saves for McDonald's.

Roadrunners showed far better ball control throughout and beat Victoria to intercepts and loose balls, particularly in the third period.

The game was played under protest by Richmond because of McDonald's use of Somner, a three-year veteran of the Western Lacrosse Association who was dropped Monday by the Victoria Shamrocks.

Victoria had requested permission to use Somner to league commissioner Keith McEachern, who in turn put the matter before the other clubs. All clubs in the five-team league agreed to Somner playing with the exception of Richmond.

His efforts helped Juan de Fuca Sporting Goods defeat Six Mile House, 9-3, and move to within two points of Bell's Men's Wear, leaders of the Stuffy McGinnis Men's Softball League.

Bill Polz replaced starter Don Clark on the mound for Six Mile House after he had given up a run per inning for the first four.

But Polz was greeted in the top of the fifth inning by a bases-empty home run, hit by Terry Hoy. He gave up three more runs on three hits in the sixth inning and Ron Griffis smacked another bases-empty homer in the seventh inning.

Lundquist had a one-hitter going for him until the bottom of the fourth inning when Tom Baxter hit a bases-empty home run.

At Sooke, Ron Fedosenko pitched a seven-hitter, striking out 10 batters, as Sooke Merchants defeated Labatts, 10-3.

Losing pitcher Bob Harris gave up 12 hits but made up for this somewhat by cracking a three-run homer for his team's only runs.

Charlton To Coach B.C. Boys

LONDON (CP) — Jackie Charlton, lanky soccer veteran of First Division Leeds United, flies to Vancouver June 16 to coach local school boys for five weeks.

Charlton, 37, made a similar trip to Vancouver last summer when he found that many Canadian youngsters "preferred soccer to baseball and football."

Charlton, who has been a member of England's soccer team on 37 occasions, hopes to play a couple of games for the Vancouver Spartan club during his stay.

Docherty-Hibernian Clash Ignites Scottish Soccer

GLASGOW, Scotland (AP) — Tommy Docherty, Scottish soccer team manager, Tuesday named 18 players for the mini World Cup in Brazil after a bitter row with the Hibernian club of Edinburgh.

Hibernian refused to release one of its players, John Brownlie, for the trip to Brazil. A second Hibernian star, Pat Stanton, said he didn't want to go.

The club accused Docherty of making irregular approaches to its players about the Brazil trip.

The manager denied this.

A statement by the Hibernian club said no official approach had been received about the release of Brownlie. It added the board was satisfied the manager, Eddie Turnbull, had sound reasons for not letting Brownlie go to Brazil, even if he is needed.

The quarrel between Docherty and Hibernian is the bitterest in Scottish soccer for years. It was reported on Scottish sports pages Tuesday under such headlines as "Soccer War" and "Brazil Battle."

Dodgers, Mets, Tigers Pad Leads Blue Fails To Earn First Victory

Three of major league baseball's division leaders gained on Tuesday while the fourth maintained a healthy margin.

The Dodgers got great pitching from Al Downing and blanked the Cubs, 5-0, while the surging Reds were brought up short by New York Mets, 3-2.

Victory for the Mets boosted the Eastern Division leaders four games ahead of Pittsburgh Pirates, who were rained out of scheduled action in San Diego.

In the American League East, a split with California Angels was enough to push Detroit Tigers into a four-game margin. Both the champion Baltimore Orioles and Cleveland's slipping Indians again went under.

Downing pitched a five-hitter to get his 100th major league victory and third winning decision of the season.

He was staked to a 3-0 lead in the first inning after getting out of a jam in the Cub's first turn at bat, then took control to register his second shutout of the season.

Jim McAndrew and Tug McGraw stopped everyone except Johnny Bench in the Mets' victory. Bench accounted for both Cincinnati runs with his 14th homer of the season.

It came in the fourth inning, but the Mets got single runs in their half of the fourth, on a home run by John Milner and the sixth, on a double by Cleon Jones. Then they won it in the seventh when Jim Beauchamp, batting for McAndrew, singled and came around when Tom Agee singled after Bud Harrelson had drawn a base on balls.

Houston Astros moved into a second-place tie with the Reds by slipping past Philadelphia Phillies, 4-3. It was the ninth successive setback for the early season's surprise leaders.

Tigers outlasted the Angels, 8-6, in the first game, which produced a three-run homer by Ed Brinkman and a two-run homer by Aurelio Rodriguez in the early surge which brought Detroit an 8-2 lead.

The Orioles went down to their fifth straight defeat when Steve Brye hit a 15th-inning single which gave Minnesota Twins a 5-4 decision. Orioles appeared to have things under control but the Twins forced overtime by scoring three times in their last turn at bat.

BLUE FAILS

Oakland gave Vida Blue his third start of the season, but last season's Cy Young Award winner again failed to last or pick up a victory. He had allowed seven hits and was a 1-2 trailer when he left in the seventh inning.

Darold Knowles and Rollie Fingers came out of the bullpen to head off a threatened rally and Fingers, now 5-1, became the winning pitcher when the Athletics broke through for two runs in the eighth inning and four more in the ninth.

Victoria To Host Bowling Finals

VANCOUVER — Victoria has been chosen as the site for the 1974 Western Canada and Canadian fivepin bowling championships.

Lou Clifford, president of the B.C. Fivepin Association, confirmed that Gibson's Bowladrome has been selected as the site for the event. The 1973 tournaments will be held in Winnipeg.

Clifford added that July meetings of the Canadian Bowling Congress may change the format of the championships, perhaps making it all one.

City Couple Loses Mare

Jean and Bill Woods of Victoria were among thoroughbred owners who lost stock Sunday night when a fire at Vancouver's Exhibition Park destroyed two stables and at least 25 horses.

They have received confirmation that one of the fire victims was Bumpty Bump, a five-year-old mare who had been shipped back to Exhibition Park on Friday. She was shoed Saturday and trainer Bob Kean expected to enter her within a few days. Bumpty Bump started two races earlier in the season, bled in the second and was brought back to Victoria.

The Woods own two other thoroughbreds — the four-year-old Table Top, who is expected to race later this month, and Blue Cheri, in foal to First Table.

Three runs — all off errors — in a final-inning burst enabled Kubicek's Home Service to come from behind and nip Farmer Construction, 4-3, at Lambrick Park Tuesday night.

Mabee had replaced starter Pete Jolly, who struck out nine batters before being lifted with one out in the seventh inning. Jolly also had two hits in two trips to the plate and drove in one run.

Canada Blanked In Uber Cup

TOKYO (CP-AP) — Indonesia shut out Canada, 7-0, Tuesday in the second round of the 1972 Uber Cup world women's badminton championship.

Indonesia plays New Zealand in the semi-finals Thursday with Japan and Denmark meeting in the other semi-final. The final is on Sunday.

The Indonesians outplayed the Canadians — who reached the quarter-finals by beating the United States, 6-1 — with an exhausting combination of passing shots and drop shots.

Utami Dwi, Asian singles champion, overwhelmed Canadian champion Nancy McKinley of Toronto, 11-2, 11-0, but former Victorian Judy Rollick put up a better showing in her singles match, going down, 11-8, 11-8, to Itan.

Closest matches were the first two of four doubles contests.

Regina Masli and Itan beat Marjorie Shedd and Barbara Welch, the Canadian doubles champions from Toronto, 15-5, 12-15, 15-2, and Rento Kustijah and Poppy Tumengkol beat Mrs. Rollick and Mimi Nilsson of Vancouver, 15-8, 14-17, 18-13.

Several Golf Veterans To Miss U.S. Open

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ken Venturi, 1964 U.S. Open champion and a member of the 1965 Ryder Cup team, soared to a 36-hole total of 151 Tuesday and failed to qualify for the 1972 U.S. Open golf tournament.

Venturi was well back in the field of 54 golfers who vied for six berths in sectional qualifying over the 6926-yard par-72 Atlanta Athletic Club course. He shot a 77 on the first round and managed only a 74 on the second.

Tim Collins, a virtual unknown from Greenville, S.C., fired a two-under-par 142, leading Atlanta qualifers for the U.S. Open at Pebble Beach, Calif., June 15-18.

Touring pro Larry Ziegler, winner of the 1969 Michigan Classic, and Bill Hall carded five-under-par 139s, pacing five qualifiers at the Westwood Country Club in St. Louis. Bert Weaver was third with 142.

The biggest casualty at St. Louis was Bob Goalby, tour regular and 1968 Masters champion, who shot a 157.

After a fine morning round of 69, Snead ballooned to a 78 in the afternoon. His 147 total was 12 strokes behind Doug Sanders, the top qualifier.

Snead, winner of 84 PGA-cosponsored tournaments, claimed his afternoon round was "about the worst I've ever played in my life."

The temperature was in the high 80s, but Snead refused to use that as an excuse.

So for Snead, the U.S. Open jinx continues. An Open also-ran 33 times, he competed in 25 consecutive Opens starting in 1937. His closest shot at a title came in 1939 at Philadelphia, when with victory in his grasp he went one over on the 17th and then three over on the final hole.

Last year, due to a mix-up in the mail involving Snead's application, he did not even compete in the qualifying rounds.

Among the prominent names not to make the grade, along with Snead, were Phil Rodgers, Herb Hooper, Lionel Hebert and Bruce Fleisher. The veteran Hebert suffered from heat exhaustion late in the day.

Cowichan Fallers Beat Contempt Charge

Case Dismissed on Technicality

VANCOUVER (CP) — A contempt of court action launched by B.C. Forest Products Ltd. against its Cowichan fallers was dismissed in B.C. Supreme Court Tuesday.

Mrs. Justice D. E. Andrews ruled that a previous contempt dismissal decision by Mr. Justice Victor Dryer applied in the case.

The firm had applied for a contempt ruling on claims that its Cowichan fallers had disobeyed a Supreme Court injunction banning continuance of an illegal wildcat strike. The court was told that the men still remained away from their jobs despite the injunction.

The B.C. Forest Products application, however, was not adjudicated on its merits but was decided on a technical issue which Vancouver lawyer Hugh Legg, counsel for the firm, said should be dealt with first.

Legg noted that a number of similar contempt cases had been dismissed in recent weeks following decisions by Supreme Court judges, among them Dryer.

He said that Dryer had held that the fallers he dealt with in his case were not guilty of contempt of a no-strike injunction because the type of job-refusal action they engaged in after the issuing of that injunction was not specificially prohibited by the injunction.

Dryer had said that his conclusion was based on his interpretation of the precise wording of the injunction.

Legg told Andrews that before his full case could be heard it would be necessary for him to decide whether he agreed with Dryer's interpretation of the meaning of the injunction.

The lawyer contended that the interpretation of Dryer's was too narrow and that the wording of the injunction could be taken to prohibit also, the type of job refusal he alleged took place after the injunction was issued.

John Laxton and Russell Chamberlain, lawyers for the fallers, submitted that Dryer's interpretation applied in the case and contended for this reason that the contempt of court application should be dismissed.

Andrews said he agreed with the interpretation reached by Dryer, adding that he would have interpreted the wording of the injunction in the same way.

Nanaimo Suspect Charged

Policeman Shot In Pre-Dawn Gun Battle

NANAIMO — a 28-year-old man charged with the attempted murder of a Nanaimo policeman early Tuesday was remanded for a 30-day psychiatric examination when he made a brief apperaance in Nanaimo Provincial Court later in the day.

The murder charge followed a shootout in Nanaimo RCMP offices about 3 a.m. Tuesday.

John Stanley James Puff, of 159 Wakesiah Avenue, was booked after Nanaimo RCMP Constable Donald Gurdgfield, 24, was wounded in the left thigh by ablast from a 16 gauge shotgun.

Police said a young man entered the Nanaimo police office about 3 a.m. Tuesday and, as he approached the front counter, was heard to mutter something about a car.

Grudgfield, who was alone in the office at the time, was approaching the counter when the shot was fired. Staff Sgt. G. A. Perry, in charge of the local detachment, said his information indicated the constable was about 15 feet away from the man when he was hit.

The policeman reportedly dived behind a partition surrounding the police radio room. He fired one shot at the man but narrowly missed. The bullet passed through a glass window and through the walls of two offices before lodging itself in the woodwork in a third wall.

The man then fled.

Grudgfield alerted other officers on shift by radio and after several off-duty officers were called in police cordoned off the area near the Quarterway Hotel on the city's outskirts where the man was believed to be hiding in bushes.

Puff was taken into custody after he was convinced to leave the bush by his brother, who was brought to the scene by police. Puff is said to have had a shotgun pointed under his own chin when he was disarmed by his brother.

Grudgfield was taken to Nanaimo General Hospital after the incident. He was reported in satisfactory condition Tuesday following emergency surgery to remove shotgun pellets from his leg.

In Provincial Court late Tuesday, Nanaimo psychiatrist Dr. Joseph Boulding said he believed Puff is mentally ill and confirmed that additional testing at a full-fledged mental hospital would prove beneficial in trying to determine the man's condition.

While in court, Puff denied he was mentally ill and said he did not believe Boulding to be qualified to make such an assessment.

Puff is scheduled to appear in court here again July 6 at which time the results of the psychiatric tests will be made known.

Puff was also before the courts on three other charges, refusing to provide a breath sample, impaired driving and assault causing bodily harm. All charges have been adjourned until July 6.

Staff Sgt. Perry said Tuesday he didn't know "what society is coming to."

He said police officers today are merely targets, both for bullets and for rocks, bottles and explosives, such as those used in a disturbance in Vancouver Saturday night.

"I don't know what can be done. Nobody seems to have the answer," he said.

Nanaimo Mayor Frank Ney said that over the years, RCMP stationed in Nanaimo have continually had to face the possibility of injury and death in incidents such as that reported Tuesday.

"We should remember that we are fortunate that we have dedicated police officers to protect us and give us a society in which we can function in a social climate that is the envy of many parts of the world," Ney said.

BEER PUB PATRON CUT DOWN

LADYSMITH — One man is in hospital in Victoria and another is in the custody of the Ladysmith RCMP following an incident in the beer parlor of the Sportsman Hotel at about 6:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Charles Herbert Lumley, 49, was reported in poor condition with head wounds at Royal Jubilee Hospital late Tuesday night after being transferred there from Nanaimo General Hospital.

Boundary Extension Sought by Duncan

DUNCAN — City council at a special meeting this week decided to petition Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell to extend the boundaries of Duncan to include the Eagle Heights-Koksilah area.

Residents from that area asked the city several weeks ago to take over that district to get fire protection and a sewer system. Another group in the Eagle Heights-Koksilah area objects to the annexation of their district by the city because they fear that taxes will be too high and that they will lose their identity as an unorganized area.

A vote will probably be held for the residents in that area at the end of the month.

In other business, council decided to advertise, for the first time in the city's history, the position of a deputy clerk to be hired some time this fall.

IWA Propose Secret Counter Offer

VANCOUVER (CP) — Representatives of B.C.'s 28,000 coast woodworkers Tuesday made a counter-proposal to an offer from Forest Industrial Relations of a 19.2-per-cent wage increase over three years.

Jack Moore, regional president of the International Woodworkers of America, refused to disclose details of the counter offer made at closed meeting with FIR, bargaining agent of 115 forest companies.

Moore earlier called the FIR offer of 71.5-cent-an-hour wage boost "unacceptable because of its three-year stipulation." However, he said Tuesday's meeting indicated that some progress is being made.

"We aired a lot of our demands and things are looking more promising," he said.

But FIR president John Billings was not so optimistic.

"The IWA has not made any significant moves as yet to fulfill (Labor Minister) James Chabot's suggestion that it reduce its demands and the fallers return to work," said Billings.

The 800 coast fallers walked out more than a month ago to support demands for a standard pricing agreement and have vowed they will not return until it is reached.

The IWA initially asked for an across-the-board wage hike of $1 an hour on the current base rate of $3.72. The present contract expires June 14.

Meanwhile, at Port Alberni, operations at Macmillan Bloedel Ltd.'s plywood division were shut down Tuesday night by a walkout of some 200 workers on the afternoon shift.

A company spokesman said he didn't know when the men would return to work or if the graveyard shift would report.

Management Tastes Lunch Circuit Menu

By DON COLLINS
Colonist Labor Reporter

Are service clubs acting as an extension to the B.C. Employers' Association in an effort to give wide publicity to management's side of the story in the province's 1972 crop of labor disputes?

With key management figures and negotiators hitting the "luncheon meeting" circuit as speakers in recent weeks, some union officials claim there is a concerted effort to present one side of the picture.

In Victoria Tuesday, where a forest industry executive spoke to the Victoria Kiwanis Club, the club president said there had been no attempt to line up union speakers but that he would welcome such a speaker. The president, Archie Hall, said speakers are sometimes arranged for by the club itself and often as a result of names suggested to them from other sources.

Hall made his comments in an interview before a meeting that heard an address on current coast industry negotiations by R. J. Whittle of Vancouver, vice-president of B.C. Forest Products.

He said the service club had not undertaken to set up a debate format that would have someone from each side but was chiefly interested in hearing from persons with knowledge of current topics.

He said, however, that his own club would be interested in hearing the views of "someone representing the employees."

The interview led to a sort of informal invitation to Weldon Jubenville, president of the Duncan local of the IWA, to appear sometime as a speaker.

This was apparently because the topic Tuesday was coast industry negotiations, which involves Jubenville, among others.

"We'd be glad to have Mr. Jubenville if he is available," said Hall.

On numerous occasions recently C. J. (Chuck) Connaghan, president of the Construction Labor Relations Association, which locked 18 unions out, has told the story of the contractors at various service club meetings throughout B.C.

Other officials of the forest industry have also spoken to service clubs on labor difficulties.

Some unionists think it ties in with the Employers' Association, an organization which spends most of its time dealing with the general labor scene.

Several months ago, the same Victoria Kiwanis Club had Sandringham Private Hospital administrator Mrs. Margaret Reynolds as a speaker. Sandringham, at 1650 Fort, has been the scene of a strike since Sept. 30, 1970.

There was no invitation extended to labor but Victoria Labor Council secretary Larry Ryan later addressed the club on request.

New Cowichan Valley Service

Little Tourist Hut Information Haven

DUNCAN — A new tourist service has opened at the Totem Chevron gas station at the Trans-Canada Highway and Trunk Road.

Tourist counsellor Judy Mann, who is in charge of the small information hut, said Tuesday, there is no intention to compete with the information centre of the Duncan-Cowichan Chamber of Commerce about one block north of the intersection on the west side of the highway.

On the contrary the chamber information centre assists the new service and Miss Mann said both services can complement each other.

Although the tourist season has not yet commenced Miss Mann's centre is busy giving advice to visitors from various parts of the continent who are trying to beat the big rush of visitors which is anticipated this year.

There already is hardly a dull moment for the Duncan born girl who graduated from the Cowichan senior high school last year. When the position of tourist counsellor became available Judy grabbed the opportunity because, "I like to meet people."

As she is a native of the Cowichan Valley she will be able to provide first-hand information on the valley's many beauty spots and a number of attractions like the Cowichan Valley Forest Museum and the historic stone church, both of which draw many visitors to this area every year.

Forced-Choice Arbitration Advocated by Shrum

NANAIMO — Delegates at the 21st annual B.C. Chamber of Commerce convention, which wound up here Tuesday, were told there should be forced-choice arbitration to cure current labor ills.

Newly elected president of the chamber, Dave Tait of Vancouver will meet with provincial Labor Minister James Chabot today to present the chamber's resolutions. Other members of the chamber executive also plan to accompany Tait to tell Chabot of the convention feeling on labor issues.

B.C. Hydro chairman, Dr. Gordon Shrum told the convention Tuesday that he favored forced-choice arbitration in labor disputes.

In his address, Shrum said this process would allow each side to make its most reasonable offer or demand. An arbitrator would then be required to choose one or other of the demands.

Shrum said, "It seems a shame that our construction industry should be shut down during the best months of the year. I personally believe that strike votes before negotiations commence are undesirable."

He added that this kind of muscle and back-up power should not be necessary at this stage in the collective bargaining process." He suggested that forced-choice arbitration be tried.

Monday the chamber resolved that methods other than strike and lockout be used to settle contract disputes in the public sector and that the provincial government take action to prevent strikes or lockouts in private industry.

The chamber also voted Tuesday to ask the Canadian Radio and Television Commission to allow video taping and re-broadcasting of American programs over all Canadian cable or broadcast television systems. Delegates from northern B.C. said the existing regulations discriminate against that part of the province.

Other policy made by the chamber was to adopt a resolution urging the federal government to require that all coal from the East Kootenay be transported to Roberts Bank by an all-Canadian route.

Also favored were the establishment of a highway investigation board and penalties for the illegal posting of no hunting or trespassing signs.

The chamber also voted to ask for establishment of a provincial recreational development corporation to provide long-term loans for the tourist industry.

Chemainus High Students Lose School Choice

School Board Reverses Decision

DUNCAN — The Cowichan school board has reversed a decision which had given Chemainus high school students a choice of attending schools at either Chemainus or Cowichan.

At its meeting this week the board decided that all Grade 12 students attending Chemainus high school will be transferred to Cowichan beginning next September.

The about turn was made because of an unexpected change in the accreditation status of the Chemainus high school.

It was announced at the regular meeting of the board Monday night, that the accreditation, which had previously been removed from the school for the current year on the basis of provincial examination results, would not be granted by the education department for the school year 1972-73.

The board, in making its earlier decision last week, expected accreditation to be reinstated for the next year.

Grade 11 students will be transferred the following year, which will reduce the Chemainus school to a junior high school.

The board felt that the transferring of the Grade 12 students as a block would be educationally desirable and also economically sound.

Trustee Don Martin said: "We are taking a step towards a fully integrated school system within the district."

The shift will create a problem in the programming of student timetables and will require the hiring of two additional staff members at the high school, but is not expected to create any major upheavals.

A point of concern for the board was student and parental reaction to the change, however, in the light of the new circumstances and the feasability of the probram, swift action was felt to be necessary.

Board chairman David Bradbury said: "Our previous decision was on the reasonable hope that it (accreditation) would be returned this coming year. But now the rules of the game have changed. The position is not the same."

Logging Industry Theme

DUNCAN — "Our Logging Industry" is the theme for this year's Cowichan Celebrations which begin June 30 and end July 9.

Subtitle for the celebrations with be "10 days of fun and action in the beautiful Cowichan Valley." One of the highlights will be a parade July 1, leaving from the Plaza-Safeway parking lot.

Other events to coincide with the celebrations will include: queen's ball, dancing, bands, rides for children, art and crafts displays, circus and ball tournaments.

Island Copper Mine Faces Strike Vote, Talks Off

A northern Vancouver Island copper mine has become involved in a possible strike situation as contract talks between the United Steelworkers of America and Cominco Ltd. have broken off.

In Trail, local president R. L. Keiver said Tuesday the workers could legally strike June 30 if no agreement is reached.

Keiver said there are many issues in dispute: wages, job security, fringe benefits, company contributions to the income disability plan, vacations, an extra statutory holiday, jury duty, bereavement pay, shift differential for shift workers, apprentices, probationary periods, demarcation of tradesmen's lines, two-week layoff notices and an agreement on painters and steam engineers.

B.C., Building Unions Head for Clash Today

'We'll Ignore Order'

● Bill 33 battle finds support. Page 17

VANCOUVER (CP)— A confrontation between the B.C. government and the province's construction unions appeared inevitable Tuesday night as all hope of meeting Labor Minister James Chabot's deadline of noon today for contract settlement was lost.

Jim Kinnaird, president of the B.C. and Yukon Building and Construction Trades Council, said another week of negotiations was needed to end the industry's strike-lockout. "But we're not going to ask for it. The hell with him (Chabot)."

Chabot said, however, that the government "is not prepared to start fooling around with deadlines now."

"They've had ample time," Chabot said. "If the ratifications (of all 18 contracts) aren't in by noon, the order goes in."

Chabot said the cabinet would meet in New Westminster tonight and pass an order-in-council ordering a return-to-work and a binding settlement by the B.C. Mediation Commission.

Kinnaird said: "We'll ignore the damn thing; it's as simple as that."

C. J. Connaghan, president of the Construction Labor Relations Association which locked out all 18 construction unions five weeks ago, said: "If he (Chabot) moves, we will obey the law."

A government order under Section 18 of the Mediation Commission Act would give the parties in a contract dispute 24 hours to resume work. It is understood the cabinet would time things so that construction work would be ex-

Saving the Planet: What's at Stake?

Industrial man is living on borrowed time. Having recklessly consumed fast-diminishing supplies of basic raw materials, and in the process over-populated and fouled his planet, he has at last realized that it can't go on indefinitely. The UN Conference on the Human Environment, currently taking place in Stockholm, is the first major international effort to face up to these massive problems.

As background material to some of the problems under discussion in Stockholm, the Colonist is presenting a series of articles dealing with the more urgent aspects of the human dilemma.

The series opens on Page 5 today. The Topic: Population. Subsequent articles will deal with the threat of food supplies, to water and air, and to wildlife — all of which, explains writer Gamini Seneviratne, are vital to mankind's existence.

Mother firmly on nest while workers look on

Evicted Mom Ducks Issue

Tuesday a move had to be made. Don Adams, SPCA inspector, went to the site and moved nest and mother to a spot near the reservoir on Summit Street.

The mother took off for a 20-minute swim in the reservoir, then returned to the original nest site. Adams managed to catch her and take her to the new location.

"She looked the situation over for about 10 minutes, covered the eggs with the down in the nest, then went away," Adams said.

"I waited until there was danger of the eggs cooling, then took them home and put them in an incubator."

There they will stay for the remaining six days of their incubation period, unless the mother can be found and persuaded to take over once more. Adams is going back to the site this morning to see if he can find her.

If not, duck-fanciers can take comfort from the fact that mallards frequently nest twice in a season. Mother may soon be sitting on a new batch of eggs in a new nest, leaving her first brood to the incubator and the SPCA.

Adams Tuesday night was appreciative of the concern shown by the construction workers and the many citizens who telephoned him to ask after Mother Mallard and her eggs.

While he is not an expert on ducks, Adams has a wide knowledge of other wild birds and has hatched a number of their eggs successfully in his incubator.

Pollution: Canada Would Go It Alone

STOCKHOLM (CP) — Canada is prepared to initiate some international anti-pollution programs unilaterally even if they are not fully acceptable to the United Nations environment conference.

Environment Minister Jack Davis made this clear at a news conference Tuesday when he reported that his campaign to develop global anti-pollution standards is meeting increasing opposition.

The United States indicated in its presentation that it prefers national programs under which sovereignty would be protected. Delegation chairman Russell Train also wants to see the proposed permanent UN environment body tucked away as a commission under the UN Social and Economic Council, a move which Canada intends to fight, backed by a number of other countries.

Swedish Prime Minister Olof Palme said in an interview that he will support the Canadian view that the new agency should be given teeth under which it may launch global attacks on polluters.

Palme suggested such an agency might prove more effective in dealing with multinational companies whose operations are spread among many countries.

As 17 of the 112 countries presented their position papers before the plenary session Tuesday, it appeared evident that no matter how the infighting developed, Maurice Strong of Canada, the conference secretary-general, would get his permanent environment organization, though its strength is still in doubt.

The U.S. announced that it

Castro's Heart Troubled

WARSAW (AP) — Polish government sources said Tuesday night Fidel Castro was showing signs of heart trouble after the Cuban premier arrived in Poland for a stop on a nine-nation tour.

The sources said Castro, 41, was in "a state prior to a heart infarct," indicating fear that he might suffer a heart attack.

California Tops Four-State Gain

McGovern Sweeps

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — George McGovern bolted into an early lead over Hubert Humphrey Tuesday night in the snarled California primary and claimed a majority of New Jersey's delegates. President Nixon also captured enough delegates in California to guarantee renomination.

With 20 per cent of the vote counted in the make or break California Democratic primary, McGovern led Humphrey by a margin of 49 to 35 per cent.

California Secretary of State Edmund Brown ordered county election officials not to release or even count votes until 11 p.m. A federal court order to keep the polls open in San Francisco until that hour prompted the secretary of state's ruling.

But the word did not get through at once to at least 4 of the 58 counties, including the San Francisco suburb of San Mateo where McGovern took the lead based on scattered returns. He also led big in the three other counties.

Meantime, McGovern won the New Mexico primary over Alabama's George Wallace and the South Dakota contest where he was unopposed. Early returns from New Jersey placed McGovern in the lead there.

AP—Reuter

SALISBURY — Rescuers burrowing into a Rhodesian coal mine where a massive explosion occurred Tuesday, trapping 468 men underground, found one survivor Tuesday night and three dead bodies.

A spokesman for the Wankie colliery said the survivor and the bodies were all found in the same area 300 feet below the surface in the central "Kamandama" shaft.

The spokesman said rescuers had been unable to penetrate further than the bottom of the central shaft, and added that heavy rockfalls had severely hampered rescue attempts.

The discovery of the survivor was the first official confirmation that anyone had lived through the explosion.
